Gov. Lausche Says Nothing On Successor

Four Prominent Democrats In Line For Appointment

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 31 (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche's plans for his own political future appeared today to be the key to appointment of a successor to Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Ohio's Democratic governor, whose four terms have been marked by independence of attitude and unpredictable decisions, refused even to discuss the subject.

But, Buckeye politicians figured it this way:

If Gov. Lausche decides he would like to run for the Senate in 1954, he will name a comparative unknown, who will bow out gracefully after the interim or who would make only a minor opponent if he ran.

May Name Unknown

If Lausche decides he doesn't want to be senator, he will appoint a big-name successor, one who figures to run strongly in 1954.

If Gov. Lausche can't make up his mind at once, he will name an unknown.

In any case, it looked like a cinch Gov. Lausche would name a member of his own party. That would shift the balance of power in the U. S. Senate by giving Democrats a plurality.

But, all this calculated guessing could be knocked away if a contemplated action in the Ohio Legislature goes through. Rep. Adrian B. Fink Jr. (R-Cuyahoga) said he plans to introduce a bill today that would provide for a special primary in 60 days and a special election 60 days thereafter.

The odds appeared to be against Fink's proposal even getting before the Legislature. The 100th General Assembly is meeting for formal adjournment today and such a proposal would require unanimous approval by both House and Senate to reach the floor.

Political guessers have had notable lack of success in predicting the actions of Gov. Lausche. Since he isn't talking, either publicly or privately, about his appointment plans, the guessers have just about blanketed the Democratic party in picking possibilities.

Disalle Wants Job

Foremost among the names of strong candidates if Lausche gives up senatorial ambitions was that of Michael V. Disalle of Toledo, former price chief and an unsuccessful senatorial candidate last fall against Sen. John W. Bricker, Taft's Republican colleague.

Disalle frankly would like to get the appointment. He said so.

Other Democrats of the "strong" rating were Thomas A. Burke, mayor of Cleveland, and Rep. Robert T. Secrest, the Senecaville Democrat who is in his eighth term in a nominally Republican district.

Reds Say Many U.S. POWs Will Be Freed

Exchange To Begin Next Wednesday

MUNSAN, Saturday, Aug. 1 (AP)—A "good number" of Americans will be among sick and wounded Allied prisoners of war who are to be the first to come back when the exchange of captives starts Wednesday, the Peiping radio said today.

The broadcast, monitored at Tokyo, shed some light on Red plans for the prisoner exchange as developed in meetings with Allied truce groups at Panmunjom.

Meanwhile, another meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission, the Allied-Red group which is overseeing the policing of the front-line truce zone, was set for 11 a.m. today. (9 p.m. Friday, EST).

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior United Nations officers on the commission, said the first conference of the neutral nations supervisory commission might also be held today.

The meeting of the neutral commission, which will watch for non-compliance with truce terms behind the lines of the respective armies, depends upon the arrival of its Polish and Czechoslovakian members. The members from Sweden and Switzerland, the other two countries to make up the commission, already are at hand.

The Peiping radio broadcast said the first group of returned Allied prisoners would be "non-Korean sick and wounded." It added that besides the Americans and British there would be French, Turkish, Colombian, Filipino, Australian and Greek prisoners.

The Reds have said that they hold about 500 sick and wounded prisoners of all nationalities. They have promised to send back 12,763 Allied prisoners included 3,313 Americans.

The Red radio also said the sick and wounded were being assembled at the general hospital at Pyoktong, a camp near the Manchurian border, in preparation for the trip by train to Panmunjom.

Another Peiping broadcast asserted the prisoners at Pyoktong were treated to a farewell "grand feast" by their captors.

Fabulous Jewels Are Stolen From Hohenzollern Castle

HECHINGEN, Germany, July 31 (AP)—Thieves broke into the Hohenzollern Castle museum here last night and stole some of the fabulous jewels of Germany's former rulers, including gifts from Britain's Queen Victoria to Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The sentimental and historical worth of the stolen treasure, including jewel-encrusted medals and plate of gold, far exceeded the $100,000 value estimated by police. Servants, museum attendants and others living in several buildings of the castle heard nothing of the break-in. It was not discovered until a ladder was seen propped against the 30-foot castle wall early this morning.

Had Yearned To Be Elected To Presidency

GOP Senate Leader's Loss Shocks Nation, Sons At His Bedside

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, who guided the Republican party for years but never won its command, died quietly today, victim of relentless cancer that ravaged like wildfire. He was 63.

The New York Hospital said he wasn't even aware of any illness until three months ago when his legs began to bother him. Death was due to "widespread, highly malignant, rapidly growing tumors."

His four sons were by his side when death came at 11:30 a.m. (10:30 EST). The Republican senator from Ohio had been in a coma and dying for about 13 hours. The hospital said death was quiet and painless.

Wife Not At Bedside

Mrs. Martha Taft, the senator's wife, remained in Washington. Confined to a wheelchair since a stroke, she was flown to New York Tuesday when Taft first took a turn for the worse. She returned to the capital the next day.

Taft was the son of the 27th President of the United States, William Howard Taft, and his own consuming ambition was to return to the White House as president in his own right.

Four times over a period of 16 years, he sought the Republican presidential nomination. He finally gave up a year ago after President Eisenhower defeated him on the first convention ballot.

Taft was three times senator from his native Ohio, and he was one of the sponsors of the controversial Taft-Hartley labor law.

His greatest area of influence was in the Senate, where six months ago he became majority leader under the first Republican President in 20 years. His illness forced him to turn over the duties several weeks ago to Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), who now is acting majority leader.

Taft had been counted on to guide President Eisenhower's program through a Senate where the margin of GOP control was never more than one vote.

Also, he was counted on to help keep a precarious balance in a Republican party that, but for Taft's own sense of party loyalty, might have been split asunder by Eisenhower's 1952 nomination.

Taft's influence reached well beyond the Senate, into the ranks of party conservatives. In rallying around him, they thus formed the so-called Taft wing of the party. By contrast, more internationally minded GOP members drifted into the orbit of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Taft watched other men emerge to titular leadership of the party during the 16 years he yearned for the nomination. There was Gov. Landon of Kansas in 1936, the late Wendell Wilkie in 1940, then Gov. Dewey and finally Gen. Eisenhower. Each of these men in turn snatched the plum of GOP presidential nomination from the outstretched hands of Taft.

Yet, at the end, Taft had risen to a position of great party power, if not command. An acknowledged GOP spokesman in the Senate on domestic affairs, he took over foreign policy leadership in the upper house when Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) died in 1951.

Morose To Vote GOP

Taft's death could cost the Republicans control of the Senate. Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio is a Democrat and presumably will name a fellow-Democrat to succeed Taft.

However, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the former Republican who turned independent, said he would vote with the Republicans if the issue of Senate control arose. With this addition, Senate Republicans would have 48 votes to the possible 48 for the Democrats. Such a tie could be decided in favor of the GOP by Vice President Nixon, a Republican.

New York Hospital, where Taft died, had never revealed the nature of his illness while he was alive. There had been reports that he was suffering from cancer, but they were not confirmed until after his death.

Said the hospital announcement about 10 minutes after death: "The first symptoms . . . were pains in the legs, later localized in the left hip. These symptoms made their onset in the latter part of April, 1953, and in the beginning were very obscure."

Taft sought assistance in hospitals in Cincinnati, Washington and New York, entering New York Hospital briefly in June. He returned for an exploratory operation July 8 and never left the hospital again.

House Drives Toward Hike In Debt Ceiling

Vote 239-158 To Raise Limit, Senate Delays

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The House tonight gave the Eisenhower administration a swift first-round victory in the battle over a 15-billion dollar hike in the federal debt limit, but storm signals were flying in the Senate.

On a roll-call vote the chamber passed a measure to comply with the President's request.

The vote on final passage was 239-158.

Earlier, the Republican-controlled chamber slapped down all efforts to delay action or amend the bill lifting the debt ceiling from 275 billion to 290 billion dollars.

Follows Warnings

Passage followed warnings by Republican leaders that failure to raise the lid would prevent the government from borrowing enough money to pay its bills and might "create panic."

Democrats protested bitterly that the eleventh hour request, coming as Congress was rushing toward adjournment, was not necessary. Some of them demanded drastic action now to trim government spending and halt red-ink financing.

The rapid-fire administration triumph in the House contrasted sharply with the picture in the Senate. A powerful lineup of Senate Democrats, backed by some Republicans, threatened to postpone action until fall.

Senate leaders were still aiming for a vote, however, before Congress adjourns around next Thursday—according to latest plans. Originally the leaders had hoped to wind up Congress this week-end, but abandoned the plans in view of the debt issue.

Reject Motion

Driving for final passage, the House rejected a motion to recommend the bill to the Ways and Means Committee for an amendment. The vote was 225-173.

All 173 votes to recommend the bill came from Democrats.

The amendment by Rep. Mills (D-Ark.) would have granted only temporary authority to hike the debt lid for 18 months. It would have brought the limit down automatically to 275 billion by Dec. 31, 1954.

Administration forces rolled up a thumping 231-81 triumph in the first House test on the issue, beating down Democratic-led efforts to block the chamber from even considering the measure.

The House vote came after Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind.) declared Congress had voted money bills which the government must raise money to pay.

"If there is the slightest question about the credit of our government," Halleck warned, "it will create panic in this country."

Republicans voted almost solidly to support the administration. Most of the opposing votes were on the Democratic side.

Fashions Show Lifted Skirts

PARIS, July 31 (AP)—A whole collection of lifted skirts was shown by Maggy Rouff today. She raised some hemlines sharply. But none reached the top of the calf, the high-water mark set by Christian Dior.

The show was dominated by widened shoulders and straight, hard to be slit for walking—and the graceful princess or redingote line, popular everywhere in the new fashions.

Politics Set Aside As Friends And Enemies Eulogize Taft

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Politics were set aside in Washington today for a great eulogy to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

President Eisenhower, members of Congress and many of Taft's political foes joined in praising him as an outstanding American patriot and statesman.

The Senate majority leader—"Mr. Republican"—to millions of Americans—died in New York today of cancer.

His death was announced to a hushed Senate by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) who said in a barely audible voice:

"The sad news has just arrived over the wires of the death of my colleague, the floor leader of this body."

Then came an outpouring of

Peaceful Chap Fined $5 After Store "Holdup"

YONKERS, July 31 (AP)—Maynard Campbell, 32, is a peaceful chap, although it doesn't always show. Today, for example, he set out to buy some pellets for his air pistol.

He didn't look very peaceful to a passerby, who saw him walk into a sporting goods store with the air pistol in his hand. The passerby called police and muttered something about a holdup.

Six cops arrived with drawn guns—real guns, too—and encircled the startled Campbell as he discussed air pellets with an equally startled clerk.

In City Court, Campbell was fined $5 for violating a law against weapons that resemble the real thing.

Soviet Police Seize 100 Tons Of U. S. Foods

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—Communist police seized 100 tons of U. S.-financed food from needy East Germans heading home from West Berlin and distributed it tonight to Soviet zone welfare institutions as "Soviet aid."

The seizures, the first mass confiscation of the week, were concentrated in six Soviet zone suburbs around Berlin.

East Berlin police sent confiscated American food packages to a warehouse on Gustav Adolf Strasse, in Weissensee borough. There police trucks loaded up the food again and took it to old people's homes and orphanages.

Red cloth banners on the trucks identified the food as Soviet. The Kremlin has an agreement with Premier Otto Grotewohl's Communist government to sell East Germany 57 million dollars worth of foodstuffs during the remainder of the year in return for strategic industrial goods.

The confiscations began after a campaign of threats and propaganda aimed to keep hungry inhabitants of the Soviet zone from streaming to the Allied sectors of Berlin to get for $1.19 a package of precious flour, fats and other food worth much more. Germans pass out the food to Germans. But all know the United States is footing the 15 million dollar bill. The total of the packages delivered rose today to about 850,000.

Dr. Hans Hirschfeld, press officer for West Berlin Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter, said the "relief program will be extended to all of the 18 million Germans under Soviet occupation if the Communist police do not effectively seal off West Berlin.

"President Eisenhower's gift of 15 million dollars worth of American food is enough to supply 12 million Germans under the present system of distribution," he said.

"But we do not doubt that America, the Federal (Bonn) Republic and West Berlin will join in extending the aid—if it is at all possible. Everyone who comes to Berlin will receive a gift of food. That is the principle on which we are working."

West Berlin welfare officials prepared to supply a record-breaking throng of East German workers over the weekend.

Commons Recesses

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—The House of Commons recessed today for its summer holiday. It will reconvene Oct. 20.

Cleric Denies Knowing Three Who Accuse Him

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A Methodist preacher accused of Communist connections was confronted with three accusers today and swore he didn't know them.

Seated in the witness chair before the House Un-American Activities Committee, the Rev. Jack R. McMichael stared stonily at Manning Johnson, a New York Negro who has testified that he knew the minister as a Red back in the 1930s.

"I don't know him," McMichael said loudly.

He gave the same answer when confronted with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Edmiston, a Waynesville, Ohio, couple who have said in an affidavit that they saw McMichael at Communist-dominated meetings while they were undercover agents for the FBI in 1940 and 1941.

When the session ended Chairman Velde (R-Ill.) issued a statement saying "There can be no question in anyone's mind concerning the fact that there is considerable evidence that perjury has been committed during the course of this hearing."

"The committee cannot recommend investigation and prosecution for perjury until it has a meeting to discuss all of these facts concerning the Rev. McMichael matter."

McMichael had been demanding through two days of hearings that he be allowed to face his accusers and today the committee accommodated him.

The pastor, who has a church at Upper Lake, Calif., was excused to let the Edmistons testify.

The committee kept Edmiston only briefly to say that the affidavit signed by himself and his wife was true and to corroborate her testimony.

Committee Counsel Robert L. Kunzig asked Mrs. Edmiston whether she knew McMichael.

"Yes, I do," she answered in a firm, clear voice.

Compromise Met On Surplus Food

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The House quickly approved tonight a Senate-House compromise bill giving President Eisenhower authority to send 100 million dollars of surplus U. S. food to needy friendly peoples abroad.

Passed by 143-15 standing vote, the compromise must still be approved by the Senate.

As worked out by Senate-House conferees, the bill omits a House provision which would have limited the total value of food to any one nation to 20 million dollars.

Eisenhower asked Congress for broad famine relief authority a month ago. Congress wrote in limitations on the amount, but added authority to send food to friendly people as well as governments. This was after the President made his offer of 15 million dollars worth of food to East Berlin residents under Communist rule.

Although Eisenhower asked authority for two years Congress limited it to next March 15.

U. S. Sends Protest In Plane Attack

Many Crewmen Said Rescued By Russians After Ship Crashed

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 1 (AP)—Moscow charged today that American fighter planes shot down a Soviet passenger plane on the Chinese-Korean border, killing 21 passengers and crewmen.

TOKYO, Saturday, Aug. 1 (AP)—A survivor from a U. S. B50 shot down Wednesday by two Russian MIG jets said yesterday the big bomber was attacked 40 miles off the Siberian coast. Moscow charged the plane was over Siberia near the big naval base of Vladivostok.

The State Department in Washington immediately sent off a protest to Moscow. It declared it had information that some of the 16 others aboard the bomber had been picked up by Russian vessels.

22 Hours In Water

Capt. John Ernest Roche of Washington, D. C., co-pilot who spent 22 perilous hours in the water before rescue, told Far East Air Forces headquarters the plane was nowhere near the mainland.

He was backed up by Gen. O. P. Weyland, Air Force commander in the Far East, who issued a terse statement saying "no American airplane has violated Soviet territory."

Roche was not allowed to see correspondents and the Air Force issued few details immediately.

The State Department said one or two MIG jets shot into the engines of the B50 as it flew over the Sea of Japan, setting one of the engines afire and forcing it to crash.

Search planes had sighted other survivors on a life raft. Fog closed in before they could be rescued, although large numbers of U. S. planes and warships searched the area.

Soviet Vessels In Area

The State Department noted that Soviet vessels were spotted in the area and its protest said information had been received that "survivors have been picked up by Soviet vessels."

Washington demanded from the Russians information on the survivors and what plans have been made to release them.

It was at first thought that Roche was the only survivor.

Roche was picked up by the U. S. destroyer Pickens after he had spent 11 hours in a life belt in the water and 11 more on a life raft dropped by a search plane.

In their earlier protest note to Washington, the Russians said the bomber had violated Russian territory in the vicinity of Vladivostok. It said the bomber fired on two Soviet fighter planes that rose to intercept it, and that the Russians returned the fire.

The Russians said the bomber then disappeared in the direction of the sea.

Taft's death could cost the Republicans control of the Senate. Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio is a Democrat and presumably will name a fellow-Democrat to succeed Taft.

However, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the former Republican who turned independent, said he would vote with the Republicans if the issue of Senate control arose.

With this addition, Senate Republicans would have 48 votes to the possible 48 for the Democrats. Such a tie could be decided in favor of the GOP by Vice President Nixon, a Republican.

New York Hospital, where Taft died, had never revealed the nature of his illness while he was alive. There had been reports that he was suffering from cancer, but they were not confirmed until after his death.

Said the hospital announcement about 10 minutes after death:

"The first symptoms . . . were pains in the legs, later localized in the left hip. These symptoms made their onset in the latter part of April, 1953, and in the beginning were very obscure."

Taft sought assistance in hospitals in Cincinnati, Washington and New York, entering New York Hospital briefly in June. He returned for an exploratory operation July 8 and never left the hospital again.

House Drives Toward Hike In Debt Ceiling

Vote 239-158 To Raise Limit, Senate Delays

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The House tonight gave the Eisenhower administration a swift first-round victory in the battle over a 15-billion dollar hike in the federal debt limit, but storm signals were flying in the Senate.

On a roll-call vote the chamber passed a measure to comply with the President's request.

The vote on final passage was 239-158.

Earlier, the Republican-controlled chamber slapped down all efforts to delay action or amend the bill lifting the debt ceiling from 275 billion to 290 billion dollars.

Follows Warnings

Passage followed warnings by Republican leaders that failure to raise the lid would prevent the government from borrowing enough money to pay its bills and might "create panic."

Democrats protested bitterly that the eleventh hour request, coming as Congress was rushing toward adjournment, was not necessary. Some of them demanded drastic action now to trim government spending and halt red-ink financing.

The rapid-fire administration triumph in the House contrasted sharply with the picture in the Senate. A powerful lineup of Senate Democrats, backed by some Republicans, threatened to postpone action until fall.

Senate leaders were still aiming for a vote, however, before Congress adjourns around next Thursday—according to latest plans. Originally the leaders had hoped to wind up Congress this week-end, but abandoned the plans in view of the debt issue.

Reject Motion

Driving for final passage, the House rejected a motion to recommit the bill to the Ways and Means Committee for an amendment. The vote was 225-173.

All 173 votes to recommit the bill came from Democrats.

The amendment by Rep. Mills (D-Ark) would have granted only temporary authority to hike the debt lid for 18 months. It would have brought the limit down automatically to 275 billion by Dec. 31, 1954.

Administration forces rolled up a thumping 231-81 triumph in the first House test on the issue, beating down Democratic-led efforts to block the chamber from even considering the measure.

The House vote came after Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind) declared Congress had voted money bills which the government must raise money to pay.

"If there is the slightest question about the credit of our government," Halleck warned, "it will create panic in this country."

Republicans voted almost solidly to support the administration. Most of the opposing votes were on the Democratic side.

Fashions Show Lifted Skirts

PARIS, July 31 (AP)—A whole collection of lifted skirts was shown by Maggy Rouff today. She raised some hemlines sharply. But none reached the top of the calf, the high-water mark set by Christian Dior.

The show was dominated by widened shoulders and straight, had to be slit for walking—and the graceful princess or redingote line, popular everywhere in the new fashions.

Politics Set Aside As Friends And Enemies Eulogize Taft

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Politics were set aside in Washington today for a great eulogy to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

President Eisenhower, members of Congress and many of Taft's political foes joined in praising him as an outstanding American patriot and statesman.

The Senate majority leader—"Mr. Republican" to millions of Americans—died in New York today of cancer.

Senate Is Hushed

His death was announced to a hushed Senate by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) who said in a barely audible voice:

"The sad news has just arrived over the wires of the death of my colleague, the floor leader of this body."

Peaceful Chap Fined $5 After Store "Holdup"

YONKERS, July 31 (AP)—Maynard Campbell, 32, is a peaceful chap, although it doesn't always show. Today, for example, he set out to buy some pellets for his air pistol.

He didn't look very peaceful to a passerby, who saw him walk into a sporting goods store with the air pistol in his hand. The passerby called police and muttered something about a holdup.

Six cops arrived with drawn guns—real guns, too—and encircled the startled Campbell as he discussed air pellets with an equally startled clerk.

In City Court, Campbell was fined $5 for violating a law against weapons that resemble the real thing.

Soviet Police Seize 100 Tons Of U. S. Foods

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—Communist police seized 100 tons of U. S. financed food from needy East Germans heading home from West Berlin and distributed it tonight to Soviet zone welfare institutions as "Soviet aid."

The seizures, the first mass confiscation of the week, were concentrated in six Soviet zone suburbs around Berlin.

East Berlin police sent confiscated American food packages to a warehouse on Gustav Adolf Strasse, in Weissensee borough. There police trucks loaded up the food again and took it to old people's homes and orphanages.

Red cloth banners on the trucks identified the food as Soviet. The Kremlin has an agreement with Premier Otto Grotewohl's Communist government to sell East German foodstuffs during the remainder of the year in return for strategic industrial goods.

The confiscations began after a campaign of threats and propaganda to keep hungry inhabitants of the Soviet zone from streaming to the Allied sectors of Berlin to get for $1.19 a package of precious flour, fats and other food worth much more. Germans pass out the food to Germans. But all know the United States is footing the 15 million dollar bill. The total of the packages delivered rose today to about 850,000.

Dr. Hans Hirschfeld, press officer for West Berlin Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter, said the "relief program will be extended to all of the 18 million Germans under Soviet occupation if the Communist police do not effectively seal off West Berlin."

"President Eisenhower's gift of 15 million dollars worth of American food is enough to supply 12 million Germans under the present system of distribution," he said.

"But we do not doubt that America, the Federal (Bonn) Republic and West Berlin will join in extending the aid—if it is at all possible. Everyone who comes to Berlin will receive a gift of food. That is the principle on which we are working."

West Berlin welfare officials prepared to supply a record-breaking throng of East German workers over the weekend.

Although Eisenhower asked authority for two years Congress limited it to next March 15.

Commons Recesses

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—The House of Commons recessed today for its summer holiday. It will reconvene Oct. 20.

Cleric Denies Knowing Three Who Accuse Him

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A Methodist preacher accused of Communist connections was confronted with three accusers today and swore he didn't know them.

Seated in the witness chair before the House Un-American Activities Committee, the Rev. Jack R. McMichael stared stonily at Manning Johnson, a New York Negro who has testified that he knew the minister as a Red back in the 1930s.

"I don't know him," McMichael said loudly.

He gave the same answer when confronted with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Edmiston, a Waynesville, Ohio, couple who have said in an affidavit that they saw McMichael at Communist-dominated meetings while they were undercover agents for the FBI in 1940 and 1941.

When the session ended Chairman Velde (R-Ill) issued a statement saying "There can be no question in anyone's mind concerning the fact that there is considerable evidence that perjury has been committed during the course of this hearing."

"The committee cannot recommend investigation and prosecution for perjury until it has a meeting to discuss all of these facts concerning the Rev. McMichael matter."

McMichael had been demanding through two days of hearings that he be allowed to face his accusers and today the committee accommodated him.

The pastor, who has a church at Upper Lake, Calif., was excused to let the Edmistons testify.

The committee kept Edmiston only briefly to say that the affidavit signed by himself and his wife was true and to corroborate her testimony.

Committee Counsel Robert L. Kunzig asked Mrs. Edmiston whether she knew McMichael.

"Yes, I do," she answered in a firm, clear voice.

Compromise Met On Surplus Food

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The House quickly approved tonight a Senate-House compromise bill giving President Eisenhower authority to send 100 million dollars of surplus U. S. food to needy friendly peoples abroad.

Passed by 143-15 standing vote, the compromise still will be approved by the Senate.

As worked out by Senate-House conferees, the bill omits a House provision which would have limited the total value of food to any one nation to 20 million dollars. Eisenhower asked Congress for broad famine relief authority a month ago. Congress wrote in limitations on the amount, but added authority to send food to friendly people as well as governments. This was after the President made his offer of 15 million dollars worth of food to East Berlin residents under Communist rule.

Although Eisenhower asked authority for two years Congress limited it to next March 15.

U. S. Sends Protest In Plane Attack

Many Crewmen Said Rescued By Russians After Ship Crashed

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 1 (AP)—Moscow charged today that American fighter planes shot down a Soviet passenger plane on the Chinese-Korean border, killing 21 passengers and crewmen.

TOKYO, Saturday, Aug. 1 (AP)—A survivor from a U. S. B50 shot down Wednesday by two Russian MIG jets said yesterday the big bomber was attacked 40 miles off the Siberian coast. Moscow charged the plane was over Siberia near the big naval base of Vladivostok.

The State Department in Washington immediately sent off a protest to Moscow. It declared it had information that some of the 16 others aboard the bomber had been picked up by Russian vessels.

22 Hours In Water

Capt. John Ernest Roche of Washington, D. C., co-pilot who spent 22 perilous hours in the water before rescue, told Far East Air Force headquarters the plane was nowhere near the mainland.

He was backed up by Gen. O. P. Weyland, Air Force commander in the Far East, who issued a terse statement saying "no American airplane has violated Soviet territory."

Roche was not allowed to see correspondents and the Air Force issued few details immediately.

The State Department said one or two MIG jets shot into the engines of the B50 as it flew over the Sea of Japan, setting one of the engines afire and forcing it to crash.

Search planes had sighted other survivors on a life raft. Fog closed in before they could be rescued, although large numbers of U. S. planes and warships searched the area.

Soviet Vessels In Area

The State Department noted that Soviet vessels were spotted in the area and its protest said information had been received that "survivors have been picked up by Soviet vessels."

Washington demanded from the Russians information on the survivors and what plans have been made to release them.

It was at first thought that Roche was the only survivor. Roche was picked up by the U. S. destroyer Pickens after he had spent 11 hours in a life belt in the water and 11 more on a life raft dropped by a search plane.

In their earlier protest note to Washington, the Russians said the bomber had violated Russian territory in the vicinity of Vladivostok. It said the bomber fired on two Soviet fighter planes that rose to intercept it, and that the Russians returned the fire.

The Russians said the bomber then disappeared in the direction of the sea.

20 Persons Drown As Bus Crashes In Canal

Montreal Vehicle Hit Stalled Truck

MORRISBURG, Ont., July 31 (AP)—A Montreal-bound bus crashed into the rear of a stalled panel truck before dawn this morning and plunged with its sleeping passengers into the Williamsburg canal. Twenty drowned. Seventeen other passengers and the drivers of both vehicles survived.

Screaming men and women smashed through windows and emergency doors as the bus settled on its side in 20 feet of water. Most of those who survived had to swim 20 feet to shore.

The accident occurred at 4 a.m. on the Toronto-Montreal highway—No. 2—near Morrisburg, just across from the Massena-Ogdensburg area of New York. Morrisburg is 40 miles southeast of Ottawa on the St. Lawrence River and the canal is used by Great Lakes shipping to bypass the rapids at that point. Canal traffic was closed off for hours because of the accident.

A tentative list of passengers showed no U. S. citizens among them.

Only the bus driver, Lorne Chesbrough of Kingston, Ont., and the truck driver, Max Roodman of Toronto, were hospitalized for injuries.

A spokesman for the Colonial Coach Lines, Ltd., which operated the bus, said in Montreal the small delivery truck was stalled at the roadside without lights, headed in the same direction as the bus was traveling. In a statement to reporters he said Roodman was standing beside the truck when the bus plowed into it and carried it along to the bottom of the canal. Chesbrough suffered from shock. Roodman escaped serious injury.

The headlights of the bus glowed eerily under the water as a Canadian Transport Department diver carried on an underwater search for more than five hours, along the canal bank. The diver brought up 10 bodies from the bottom of the canal, then fastened a cable around the submerged bus. The other 10 bodies still were in the bus when it was hauled up the 30-foot embankment to the highway.

Streibert To Head Information Agency

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Theodore C. Streibert, 53, New York radio executive, was chosen by President Eisenhower yesterday to head the reorganized overseas information agency.

In announcing his nomination, Eisenhower said he was charging Streibert with the job of "clearly and factually" presenting U. S. policies and objectives to the world.

Streibert, who was at the White House when his nomination was sent to the Senate, would succeed Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who is

Eisenhower Calls For Cooperation

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—President Eisenhower called today for a maximum of cooperation among state, local and federal governments, as well as private citizens, in achieving a balanced program for conserving and developing this country's natural resources.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower also called for a reexamination of the federal government's role in the co-operative development of water resources in the Western states.

The message went to Capitol Hill in the fifth week of a power commission hearing on a private utility company's application to develop the hydroelectric resources of the Snake River, on the Idaho-Oregon border.

The Truman administration had proposed a 400-million-dollar federal development of the project and with the advent of the Eisenhower administration it became one of the most heated of the federal vs. private development controversies.

Labor Federation To Oppose Increase In Transit Fares

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—The Baltimore Federation of Labor, which represents 85,000 AFL union members in the Baltimore area, including Baltimore Transit Company operators and maintenance workers, announced today it will oppose a fare increase asked by the BTC.

Edward H. Johns, executive secretary of the federation said the organization will join the city administration officially in opposing the rate increase petition now pending before the Public Service Commission.

The transit firm has asked the commission to approve an increase petition now pending before the Public Service Commission. The transit firm has asked the commission to approve an increase from 17 to 20 cents in its basic fare.

Compromise Bill On Foreign Aid OK'd By House

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A compromise bill providing $6,652,422,390 for foreign aid during the coming 12 months was approved by the House 237-156 today after members were told that the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) favored approximately that amount.

The measure, a split-the-difference settlement of House cuts and Senate restorations worked out by a joint conference committee early today, now goes back to the Senate for concurrence.

Before accepting the compromise, the House narrowly avoided a new hassle by rejecting 200-192 a move by Rep. Passman (D-La.) to send the bill back to conference with instructions to eliminate 211 million dollars for military aid to Europe.

The amount accepted by the House is almost 700 million dollars less than President Eisenhower requested, but 455 million more than originally voted by the House. It is 97 million dollars less than the Senate version.

In moving to insist on further cuts, Passman contended "our economy is strained to the breaking point." During an hour's debate Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) quoted from a July 1 speech by Sen. Taft to show that the late senator favored approximately the amount in the bill.

Passman's motion was beaten by 118 Republicans, 81 Democrats and 1 independent. Voting for it were 103 Republicans and 89 Democrats.

All-State Hobby Convention Gets Display Underway

BALTIMORE, Md., July 31 (AP)—The fifth annual All State Hobby convention got underway today in Baltimore with curiosities littering display tables at a downtown hotel.

Special Grand Jury Is Called

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro has summoned 12 persons to appear tomorrow morning in a special grand jury investigation of Baltimore's Off-Street Parking Commission and its Rivoli Theater site parking project.

Those summoned were C. Edward Jones, member of the parking commission; Aaron A. Baer, officer of the Peoples Holding Corp., owner of the Rivoli property; William Reifeld, Peoples Holding Corp. officer; Bernard Klein and Sidney Monen, also of Peoples; Dominic Piracci, Baltimore builder; Albert T. Haar and Samuel Winik, officers of a garage firm, and David J. Markoff, who was ordered to produce all papers in his possession bearing on the Rivoli Theater property.

Sodaro has been allotted $10,000 to pay expenses of the probe. Meanwhile, City Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison said the Off-Street Parking Survey Committee has been asked to look into charges that Jones shouldn't serve on the commission because of his activity as an attorney for parking garage firms.

Bank Robbers Get 20 Years At Frederick

FREDERICK, Md., July 31 (AP)—Two men drew 20-year prison terms today for the $14,000 robbery July 10 at the People's Bank of nearby Libertytown.

Associate Judge Patrick M. Schaeffer in Circuit Court imposed maximum sentences on Richard Walters, 42, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Lottie Archer, 30-year-old Negro of Steelton, Pa. Three additional years were given Walters on a conspiracy count.

A similar three-year term for Archer was suspended. Police listed a lengthy criminal record for Walters, who used the alias of Frank Allen when arrested less than an hour after the robbery.

The 20-year terms were on armed robbery counts.

Another Negro, Gilbert Little, 37, Harrisburg, Pa., also was indicted on armed robbery and conspiracy charges. He presently is undergoing treatment at a Baltimore hospital.

The men were captured by police on a busy Frederick street shortly after the bank was robbed. State police had been led on a wild chase from Libertytown 11 miles away. Shots were fired at the pursuing police car. The men were nabbed on a one-way street after a collision with another car.

The judge told Walters the "record shows you deserve" a longer term than the law allowed. The judge said he made the sentences for Walters consecutive so he could not be paroled. He said the record showed he had been freed on several occasions in New York State.

Phantom Turnpike Killer Shoots 3rd Victim

LISBON, Ohio, July 31 (AP)—A sleeping truck driver was shot in the head today, the third time in a week a gunman has fired into a truck cab on or near the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

It was the same pattern of death or near death that moved one Pennsylvania officer to remark two days ago "there's a maniac loose on the Turnpike."

Today's victim survived, but the first two died. In each case, a .32 caliber weapon was used.

The wounded man was identified as John K. Shepherd, 34, of West Alexander, Pa.

As he slept in the cab of his steel truck on U. S. Route 30 about a mile and a half south of here—approximately 18 miles from the west end of the Pennsylvania toll road—Shepherd was shot near the right ear. The bullet lodged in his jaw. He was taken to Salem Clinic in nearby Salem, and the bullet was removed.

The gunman struck between 3 and 3:30 a. m., said police, and the trucker "had no warning."

Pedestrian Hit By Two Autos

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—Police today were hunting two hit-run cars that sent a 22-year-old man to the hospital.

Victim of the double hit-skip, Charles E. Mariner, was treated at Franklin Square Hospital for concussion and lacerations.

A witness told police Mariner was hit last night by two late-model cars that roared through the intersection of Baltimore and Poppleton streets.

parking in restaurant driveway instead of along the edge of the toll road. The Ohio patrol has been warning drivers in Eastern Ohio to be careful where they stop to sleep.

Pennsylvania police established Wednesday that the same gun was used in the Turnpike killings Tuesday and last Saturday.

Tuesday's victim was Harry Franklin Pitts, 39, whose body was found in his parked truck near Donegal, Pa., 50 miles from Pittsburgh. Last Saturday near the Irwin interchange, 30 miles from Donegal, the victim was Lester B. Woodward, 30.

Ohio patrolmen said Shepherd was unable to give a coherent account of what happened.

His trousers and a wallet were missing.

Shepherd mumbled something about a yellow car which he thought the gunman used for his escape.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 31 (P)—The fifth annual All State Hobby convention got underway today in Baltimore with curiosities littering display tables at a downtown hotel.

About 2,000 guests are expected to view the displays before the convention ends Sunday night. Collectors of Lincoln items, who probably outnumber any one other group, gathered this morning to swap tales of their favorite president.

Special Grand Jury Is Called

BALTIMORE, July 31 (P)—State Attorney Anselm Sodaro has summoned 12 persons to appear tomorrow morning in a special grand jury investigation of Baltimore's Off-Street Parking Commission and its Rivoli Theater site parking project.

Those summoned were C. Edward Jones, member of the parking commission; Aaron A. Baer, officer of the Peoples Holding Corp., owner of the Rivoli property; William Reissfeld, Peoples Holding Corp. officer; Bernard Klein and Sidney Moneen, also of Peoples; Dominic Piracci, Baltimore builder; Albert T. Haar and Samuel Winik, officers of a garage firm; and David J. Markoff, who was ordered to produce all papers in his possession bearing on the Rivoli Theater property.

Sodaro has been allotted $10,000 to pay expenses of the probe. Meanwhile, City Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison said the Off-Street Parking Survey Committee has been asked to look into charges that Jones shouldn't serve on the commission because of his activity as an attorney for parking garage firms.

RFC Dead As Ike Signs

WASHINGTON, July 31 (P)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed legislation abolishing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and setting up in its place a Small Business Administration.

Bank Robbers Get 20 Years At Frederick

FREDERICK, Md., July 31 (P)—Two men drew 20-year prison terms today for the $14,000 robbery July 10 at the People's Bank of nearby Libertytown.

Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer in Circuit Court imposed maximum sentences on Richard Walters, 42, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Lottie Archer, 30-year-old Negro of Steelton, Pa. Three additional years were given Walters on a conspiracy count.

A similar three-year term for Archer was suspended. Police listed a lengthy criminal record for Walters, who used the alias of Frank Allen when arrested less than an hour after the robbery.

The 20-year terms were on armed robbery counts. Another Negro, Gilbert Little, 37, Harrisburg, Pa., also was indicted on armed robbery and conspiracy charges. He presently is undergoing treatment at a Baltimore hospital.

The men were captured by police on a busy Frederick street shortly after the bank was robbed. State police had been led on a wild chase from Libertytown 11 miles away. Shots were fired at the pursuing police car. The men were nabbed on a one-way street after a collision with another car.

The judge told Walters the "record shows you deserve" a longer term than the law allowed. The judge said he made the sentences for Walters consecutive so he could not be paroled. He said the record showed he had been freed on several occasions in New York State.

Fleet Reserve Plans Meeting

BALTIMORE, July 31 (P)—The east coast regional meeting of the Fleet Reserve Association will be held here tomorrow with Rep. Devereux (R-Maryland) the principal speaker. The meeting gets underway at 10 a.m.

Phantom Turnpike Killer Shoots 3rd Victim

LISBON, Ohio, July 31 (P)—A sleeping truck driver was shot in the head today, the third time in a week a gunman has fired into a truck cab on or near the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

It was the same pattern of death or near death that moved one Pennsylvania officer to remark two days ago "there's a maniac loose on the Turnpike."

Today's victim survived, but the first two died.

In each case, a .32 caliber weapon was used.

The wounded man was identified as John K. Shepherd, 34, of West Alexander, Pa.

As he slept in the cab of his steel truck on U. S. Route 30 about a mile and a half south of here—approximately 18 miles from the west end of the Pennsylvania toll road—Shepherd was shot near the right ear. The bullet lodged in his jaw. He was taken to Salem Clinic in nearby Salem, and the bullet was removed.

The gunman struck between 3 and 3:30 a. m., said police, and the trucker "had no warning."

Turnpike trucks have taken to parking in restaurant driveways instead of along the edge of the toll road. The Ohio patrol has been warning drivers in Eastern Ohio to be careful where they stop to sleep.

Pennsylvania police established Wednesday that the same gun was used in the Turnpike killings Tuesday and last Saturday.

Tuesday's victim was Harry Franklyn Pitts, 39, whose body was found in his parked truck near Donegal, Pa., 50 miles from Pittsburgh. Last Saturday near the Irwin interchange, 30 miles from Donegal, the victim was Lester B. Woodward, 30.

Ohio patrolmen said Shepherd was unable to give a coherent account of what happened.

His trousers and a wallet were missing.

Shepherd mumbled something about a yellow car which he thought the gunman used for his escape.

Pedestrian Hit By Two Autos

BALTIMORE, July 31 (P)—Police today were hunting two hit-run cars that sent a 22-year-old man to the hospital. Victim of the double hit-skip, Charles E. Mariner, was treated at Franklin Square Hospital for concussion and lacerations.

A witness told police Mariner was hit last night by two late-model cars that roared through the intersection of Baltimore and Poppleton streets.

Saturday Morning, August 1, 1953

Senator Robert A. Taft

Senator Robert A. Taft, a long-time political warrior who leaves a definite mark on the American scene and made his presence felt around the world, has passed on, victim of the dread disease cancer, which has snuffed out so many lives.

His death removes from our government one of its greatest leaders and one of its most outspoken lawmakers, whether as a member of the majority party or the "opposition."

Senator Taft well deserved the hard-earned nickname of "Mr. Republican" because he espoused the Republican cause more vigorously than any of his contemporaries.

He never ceased to fight but he never failed to rally to the cause of his party despite sometimes heart-breaking setbacks in his battle to further his ambitions.

On the national scene he fought for what he thought was right, even though he knew it to be unpopular in some instances, with a vigor and determination that outshone many an opponent.

There were many who differ from his position and opinion, often vehemently, but there were practically none who did not admire Senator Taft for his forthrightness. There never was a question as to where he stood on virtually any issue.

While he never quite reached the heights of his famous father who held the two highest offices in the land—those of President and of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court—Senator Taft unquestionably will be remembered in history as one of the great leaders of our time. It perhaps may not be too much to say that his mark on America is even more impressive than that of his father.

His life strikes an unusual parallel to that of Henry Clay, well remembered after these many years, who always was an outstanding leader and a formidable opponent, but who never quite reached his goal of the Presidency.

Senator Taft as a great Republican and a greater American has left his own remarkable record for succeeding generations to emulate.

Prisoners Of War

The prisoner exchange in Korea is said officially to involve 74,000 Allied-held Communists and 12,763 Allied troops, of whom 3,313 are Americans. These figures could be somewhat altered later.

In the discussions over the earlier exchange of sick and wounded prisoners, U. S. negotiator Admiral Daniel protested at the "incredibly small" number of Allied prisoners the Reds proposed to turn over—600, including about 150 "non-Koreans," of an announced total at that time of 11,559 prisoners in Communist hands. That was on April 8.

The Communists delivered the last of the Allied POW sick and wounded on April 26. The total was 684, of whom 213 were non-Koreans, including 149 Americans. Even so, the UN command on May 1 charged that the Reds had held back 375 Allied prisoners eligible for exchange. The estimate was based on reports of returning Allied prisoners.

Getting Communist states to return prisoners of war has proved a major international problem ever since the close of World War II. Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany declared June 14 that the Soviet Union could prove the sincerity of its peace offensive by, among other things, freeing 330,000 German POW's still held in the USSR.

Russia had notified the UN on October 16, 1951, that it had repatriated all war prisoners except those sentenced or on trial for "war crimes." Japan, however, had charged on the previous July 24 that 77,657 Japanese war prisoners were still alive in Russia, with 234,000 having died in Russian camps and 28,797 missing. A Soviet representative in Japan had replied the following day that only 516 Japanese were left in Soviet territory, all being held as war criminals.

General Bor of Poland insists that of 8,000 Polish officers captured by the Russians in 1939, only 400 were ever found alive. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization secretariat in Paris charged on June 26, 1952, that of about 2,000,000 European Axis and 800,000 Japanese prisoners from World War II in Soviet hands, the majority had died in slave labor and that the rest were still captives.

Japan has had some luck with Red China on repatriation. The Chinese began to return 30,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians on March 23 last.

Prior to the opening of truce talks in December 1951, the Chinese Reds broadcast that they held 139,000 Allied troops. But when the lists were exchanged at Panmunjon, the Red list contained only 11,559 names, of whom 4,417 were non-Koreans, including 3,198 Americans. This was about 70,000 short of the total UN missing. This gave support to charges made by General Ridgway and others of Red killings of prisoners.

The Defense Department casualty totals issued on July 29 showed 2961 Americans captured, 8,654 missing. There is no constant ratio in war between men captured and prisoners eventually returned. Of 124,079 American Army and Air Force troops captured and interned in World War II, some 90 per cent were returned to military control, 2 1/2 per cent were killed because of "military action" while captives, 1/2 per cent died of wounds and injuries, 7 per cent died of other causes, such as disease.

Sun Can Be A Killer

It is not widely enough understood that excessive exposure to the sun can be dangerous. The fact for what is innocently termed summer tan still is growing.

Medical science has discovered that ultraviolet rays of the sun, unless absorbed by clothing or some harmless ointment, directly impede production of blood cells in the bone marrows, with resulting anemia and its many complications. The practice of exposing tubercular patients to the sun is less widespread.

In infantile paralysis epidemics, doctors warn against children spending hours in the sun, urging that they be kept indoors during the heat of the day, with long periods of sleep and rest. A weakened child is more likely to be a victim than one in full vigor of health. Food is a contributing factor. It should be nourishing, never exposed to flies. Milk must be carefully guarded and adequately refrigerated.

In spite of the fact the sun is a great life-giver, it must be remembered it also is dangerous to human life. Many have died from heat in the tropics. Countless wayfarers have come to their death on desert sands. Doctors now advise those who feel the need of a suntan to enhance their social position to get it at the drug store. And, above all, children should not be permitted to menace their health by over-exposure.

Eyelid Scaling And Crusting

Not long ago a physician wrote to the American Medical association concerning a troublesome case of scaly, inflamed eyelids (blepharitis). The condition had existed for a long time. Healing occurred when a special solution of cortisone was applied locally but cure was short lived because redness and scaling returned as soon as the hormone was discontinued. The medico wanted to know whether it was safe to continue cortisone or if there is a newer treatment that could be substituted.

The letter was given to an authority who answered that it was safe to continue cortisone ointment but the product might lose its effect in time. The important part of the answer was concerned with finding the cause of blepharitis in this case. Is his patient in contact with a chemical that keeps the area irritated? Is he allergic? Is the eye condition a local manifestation of an internal or external ailment? Permanent cure rarely occurs unless the cause is eliminated. This is the lesson to be learned. It applies to most diseases and is the secret of sound treatment and logical prevention.

Lid margin inflammation is common and the first signs are redness, swelling, and soreness of the lids. Fine yellowish scales and crusts accumulate and when the sufferer awakens in the morning the lids are stuck together. After the debris is washed away some slashes fall out, leaving the surface raw and bleeding. Now and then the parts itch and the victim is bothered with eye fatigue, sensitivity to light, and frequent sties.

One type of blepharitis is associated with seborrheic dermatitis in which the inflamed eyelids are a local manifestation of a condition that produces pimples on the face and dandruff on the scalp. Such individuals have overactive oil secreting glands that make the skin more vulnerable to germ invasion. The lids may not clear completely unless the seborrheic condition on the scalp and face is treated simultaneously. Among the helpful remedies are sulfathiazole and terramycin ointments as well as the old stand-by, silver nitrate and mercuric oxide. The staphylococcus is another frequent offender. This organism is a well known enemy of the skin and produces the majority of pimples, boils, and other skin blemishes. The sulfonamides and penicillin are the most effective remedies.

Occasionally blepharitis is an indication of poor health and a good response follows the use of adequate diet, rest, sunshine, and vitamins. Allergy also may be to blame. But regardless of the type, cleanliness is important. The lids should be cleaned daily with a mild antiseptic which also helps to remove the crusts without undue injury to the margins.

Ike Rules Joint Chiefs Must Make Unanimous Decisions; Military Fear They Won't Be Able To Oppose Admiral Radford In Far East Involvement

WASHINGTON—Most important developments at the Quantico meeting of the top brass was an order by President Eisenhower that his military commanders must settle their differences inside the Pentagon and send him only unanimous recommendations.

If minority views are forwarded to him at the White House, Ike bluntly announced he will pay no attention to them. In other words, he expects the new Joint Chiefs of Staff to present a united front.

In the past, the Navy frequently differed from the Air Force and Army regarding Korean War strategy. But from now on no dissenting opinions will be permitted.

At the Quantico meeting, the fiery, red-haired chairman-designate, Adm. Arthur Radford, served notice that he considered last year's election a mandate to the new Joint Chiefs to revamp their past policies. Radford didn't elaborate on what changes he expected to make, though he went on to stress the importance of the Far East. He has long wanted the United States to intervene in China, rescue Chiang Kai-shek, put him back in power on the Chinese mainland. The outgoing Joint Chiefs opposed this as likely to embroil us in war.

Top-Secret Meeting

A "top secret" sign was posted outside the conference door as the President met with his military leaders at the Quantico Marine Base. However, this column can give a thumbnail account of what happened—except for matters involving military security, which are omitted.

The President rambled along pleasantly to the top brass about team play and harmony, about how pleased he was to meet with his former comrades-in-arms. Then he told a joke about a duck hunter who was so "roaring drunk" that his companions left him behind in the rear blind while they went ahead to man the forward blinds.

Finally, one lone duck flapped by, Ike related, and the hunters blasted away. Not so much as a feather was ruffled. Then as the duck passed over the last blind—wham!! One shot from the drunk brought down the stray duck. The hunters rushed back to congratulate their companion and found him still happily bloated.

"It was nothing," Ike quoted the drunk. "Out of that flock of ducks, I was bound to hit one."

Likewise, the President added soberly, out of all the speechmaking at the military conference, he wanted to stress one point.

"I want the decisions of the Joint Chiefs to be unanimous decisions, approved by the chairman," he declared. "If a minority opinion is sent up to me, I will treat it as if it hadn't been sent."

When Admiral Radford's turn at the rostrum came, he hinted of changes to come in military planning.

"The civilian leaders have changed. Now we also must change," he warned. "The election was a mandate for us to make some changes."

Radford stressed the importance of Formosa as a bulwark against communism, urged a strong policy in the Far East. This led some of the military leaders to conclude that the first "change" would be more military aid for Chiang Kai-shek.

Postage Gets Licked

The backstage battle over postage stamps almost caused a divorce in the Eisenhower entourage. Bitterness reached a peak between Ike's close friends, Postmaster General Summerfield and Senator Carlson of Kansas, chairman of the Senate Post Offices Committee.

Carlson has been so opposed to Summerfield's proposed boost to four cents per ounce for first class mail, seven cents for air mail, and an extra 42 per cent for second class mail, that the postmaster general finally went straight to the White House. And Eisenhower agreed to make the postage hikes part of his "must" program.

This brought Senator Carlson storming over to the White House next day. There the President soothed his old friend from Kansas by indicating privately that he wouldn't really mind if mail rates weren't increased after all. He backtracked on his stand that this was "must" legislation.

Finally the eager-beaver postmaster got into a row with Carlson as the result of a statement before the House Post Office Committee. Summerfield told the committee that Carlson had promised him to hold hearings on the Senate side, Carlson promptly issued a denial, but Summerfield repeated his statement over TV.

This amounted, in effect, to a public charge that Carlson was a liar, and it made him furious. But to make matters worse, Summerfield griped to four influential friends about Carlson.

"Senator Carlson is expendable," the postmaster general snorted. When word of this got back to the senator, he retorted angrily that Summerfield, too, might be expendable.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — "Why don't they let the FBI do it?"

For many months now this has been the outcry from those who have objected to the efforts of congressional committees to ferret out Communists and subversives in America.

For many months, also, many a witness has refused to answer questions asked by a congressional committee and has claimed constitutional immunity on the ground that the information if given might tend to incriminate him.

For many months a controversy has been going on as to whether these same witnesses would co-operate with their own government if they could do so in secret—if they could be spared the publicity. Obviously to give such information to the FBI would be one means of helping the government and yet not making any headlines or public scandal about the mention of names of persons who might be innocent.

FBI Analysis

The Senate Internal Security Committee has just received from the FBI an analysis which shows that most of the witnesses refuse to co-operate even with the FBI. Here is the information furnished by the FBI to the committee:

"A review of 35 cases on individuals who invoked their constitutional privilege against self incrimination when they appeared before congressional investigative committees, reflects the following information:

"(1) Thirty-three of these individuals had some type of identification with the Communist party. Of the remaining two persons one was reported as a Communist sympathizer and the other as one who associated with Communists.

"(2) Of these 35 individuals seven had appeared before a congressional committee on a prior occasion. They proved unco-operative before the committee on each appearance.

"(3) All 35 were interviewed by FBI agents. Twenty-six were interviewed before their appearance before the congressional committee; nine were interviewed subsequent to their congressional appearance.

"(4) Of the 35 interviewed by the bureau, 28 flatly refused to talk to agents. Of the seven that did talk to agents, three denied allegations as to their Communist connections. They were not under oath.

"One refused to deny or affirm Communist party membership and refused to make any statement.

"One denied knowing he was engaged in espionage activity from 1939 to 1945. On a subsequent interview he refused to talk on the grounds of his privilege against self incrimination.

"One furnished some information about Communism but did not admit Communist party membership. On a subsequent interview he refused to answer any questions.

"One gave seemingly false information regarding his knowledge of a certain individual. On a subsequent interview two years later he refused to talk.

"(5) The 35 unco-operative individuals refused to answer questions not only about their own Communist affiliations but about Communism in general. They refused to co-operate in any way with the congressional committee.

Proved Unco-operative

"Ten out of the 35 individuals were called before congressional sessions prior to the outbreak of the Korean War in June 1950. All ten were unco-operative. Of these ten, eight were called to testify after the outbreak of the Korean War; they remained unco-operative.

"Three out of the 35 individuals were called before an executive session. They refused to co-operate. Of these three, two were then called before public sessions; again they refused to co-operate."

It will be observed that the witnesses had a chance to impart their own information without testifying under oath. Such informality aids the FBI without involving a witness in any possibility of perjury charges. But even with such protections most of the witnesses have refused to tell what they knew.

If informers were not accepted by government—indeed, in tax cases Congress has authorized the payment of rewards to citizens who help to detect criminal fraud—the jails would not contain as many convicts as they do. Many murderers are convicted only as a result of testimony coming from witnesses who have turned 'state's evidence.' To discourage the acquisition of testimony in that way is to weaken the legal processes through which crime is detected and punished.

Any congressional committee which helps, therefore, the processes of disclosure by interrogating persons who have refused to co-operate with the FBI can assist in exposing conspiracies to overthrow the Government of the United States.

Here And Now

Hearsay

Is the moon made of green cheese? Some say it is, some say it isn't. Is there a man in the moon? Some say there is, some say nay.

On the night of July 24, this year, this space had a tryst with the moon to settle some of these mooted questions. There was not a cloud in the grayish-blue sky, no breeze stirred. The Queen of Heaven never seemed more majestic as she dominated the sky and with her all-seeing eye scanned the earth.

She had been in business a long time and knew all the answers about the legends, superstitions, romances and mythologies that had grown up around her ladyship since the dawn of history, but she left the inquiring reporter totally in the dark. Ladylike, she wouldn't even tell her age. She was non-committal, never said a "mumberlin" word, not a word. She only blandly smiled, as much as to say, politely of course, "that's my business, not yours."

From that nightly interview there was salvaged for my pains a little nugget of wisdom that might be passed on for what it is worth, to all who are ever distressed by idle rumors, lifted eyebrows, innuendoes or hearsays. It may be put in one long but simple descriptive word—Imperturbability, meaning in the vernacular, in reply to all these aspersions, it is proper to "say nothing and saw wood."

Half Truths Damaging

Keith Falconer knew how to spell it when he took a fling at the rumormongers, little-tattlers, parroters, when he posted on his mantel the family motto: "They say. What do they say? Let them say."

One of the most subtle and damaging types of hearsay is the half-truth. It is the mudsill on which propaganda is built, and is not always easily detected.

This deponent saw a banker the other day wrap up $20,000 in good currency to be sent away and burned. Horrible! That is the exact truth, but the whole truth is the package was sent to Washington to be burned, but in its place there would be returned to the bank crisp new bills, dollar for dollar, and that would please everybody, for who likes to handle dirty money, especially when "they say" a dollar is worth 53 cents.

A young teacher in applying for a job was asked if she believed the earth is round or flat. She replied that she could teach it either way.

In so saying she revealed that she was incompetent for the job by her willingness to sponsor a theory that had been passe at least since October 12, 1492.

If a mountain climber scales the Matterhorn, he may be ever so stupid, irreverent, discourteous, but people with ulterior motives will beset him with all sorts of questions—what hair tonic does he use? what tooth paste does he use?—does he prefer the one—or the two-piece bathing suit?—does the world need more religion?—should the United Nations be sacked?—should flying be encouraged?—all for purely propaganda purposes.

He may not be so naive about flying as was the old lady who said men should travel by rail as God intended they should, for if He meant that they should fly, He would have given them wings.

In a trial by jury the witness is sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. There is a fourth dimension that speaks also, although it is not of record. It is the witness himself, his air, his stance, his bearing. He cannot escape a part of his testimony.

Varnish Not Needed

Truth is self-revelatory. It never needs to be propagandized. It sells at sight. It needs only to be propagated. When it is demonstrated it will take.

Truth never needs varnish. You never paint a lily. You never spray a lilac bush with attar or roses.

What a man is so large a part of what he says and does that it is often hard to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. Together, in a good man, you have a powerful witness for truth as over against hearsay.

Such an example was Charles S. Medbury, who died in his pulpit in Des Moines, Iowa, on April 24, 1932. He was known and beloved by multiplied thousands who revere his memory. In his desk was found this declaration:

"To this day that is mine, my country's and my God's, I dedicate my all. My talents, every one, shall be held subject to the sight draft of the emergencies of others. I will enlarge my soul by cultivating love for those from whom I find myself recoiling. No man shall ever feel his color or his caste in my presence. The man who has fallen shall find in me a friend; the woman down, a helper. Those falling shall have my trust that they may stand again. The cry of every child shall find my heart, whether cry of need or of aspiration. Cherishing every life of whatever land or race, and mindful of the hidden struggles in all things I will strive to help and serve.

"No word shall ever pass my lips that hurts another in things of face, form, station or estate. My own weaknesses, my foibles, and my sins shall chasten speech and spirit, and deny my pride. My life shall be a dedicated thing.

"And thus I resolve, not because I am good, but that I want to be; not because I am strong, but I feel weakness; not that I feel above other, but with all my soul I long to be of human kind, both helped and helper.

"So do I dedicate my days. So do I set apart my culture. So do I receive but to give to others. So do I press humbly into the presence of the sacrificial Son of Man, crying out, 'Let me follow thee, Master, wherever the world still needs ministry, wherever life is still to be given for many.'"

BROTHER BARNABAS

Saturday Morning, August 1, 1953

Senator Robert A. Taft

Senator Robert A. Taft, a long-time political warrior who leaves a definite mark on the American scene and made his presence felt around the world, has passed on, victim of the dread disease cancer, which has sunned out so many lives.

His death removes from our government one of its greatest leaders and one of its most outspoken lawmakers, whether as a member of the majority party or the "opposition."

Senator Taft well deserved the hard-earned nickname of "Mr. Republican" because he espoused the Republican cause more vigorously than any of his contemporaries.

He never ceased to fight but he never failed to rally to the cause of his party despite sometimes heart-breaking setbacks in his battle to further his ambitions.

On the national scene he fought for what he thought was right, even though he knew it to be unpopular in some instances, with a vigor and determination that outshone many an opponent.

There were many who differ from his position and opinion, often vehemently, but there were practically none who did not admire Senator Taft for his forthrightness. There never was a question as to where he stood on virtually any issue.

While he never quite reached the heights of his famous father who held the two highest offices in the land—those of President and of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court—Senator Taft unquestionably will be remembered in history as one of the great leaders of our time. It perhaps may not be too much to say that his mark on America is even more impressive than that of his father.

His life strikes an unusual parallel to that of Henry Clay, well remembered after these many years, who always was an outstanding leader and a formidable opponent, but who never quite reached his goal of the Presidency.

Senator Taft as a great Republican and a greater American has left his own remarkable record for succeeding generations to emulate.

Prisoners Of War

The prisoner exchange in Korea is said officially to involve 74,000 Allied-held Communists and 12,763 Allied troops, of whom 3,313 are Americans. These figures could be somewhat altered later.

In the discussions over the earlier exchange of sick and wounded prisoners, U. S. negotiator Admiral Daniel protested at the "incredibly small" number of Allied prisoners the Reds proposed to turn over—600, including about 150 "non-Koreans," of an announced total at that time of 11,559 prisoners in Communist hands. That was on April 8.

The Communists delivered the last of the Allied POW sick and wounded on April 26. The total was 604, of whom 213 were non-Koreans, including 149 Americans. Even so, the UN command on May 1 charged that the Reds had held back 375 Allied prisoners eligible for exchange. The estimate was based on reports of returning Allied prisoners.

Getting Communist states to return prisoners of war has proved a major international problem ever since the close of World War II. Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany declared June 14 that the Soviet Union could prove the sincerity of its peace offensive by, among other things, freeing 330,000 German POW's still held in the USSR.

Russia had notified the UN on October 16, 1951, that it had repatriated all war prisoners except those sentenced or on trial for "war crimes." Japan, however, had charged on the previous July 24 that 77,657 Japanese war prisoners were still alive in Russia, with 234,000 having died in Russian camps and 28,797 missing. A Soviet representative in Japan had replied the following day that only 516 Japanese were left in Soviet territory, all being held as war criminals.

General Bor, of Poland insists that 8,000 Polish officers captured by the Russians in 1939, only 400 were ever found alive. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization secretariat in Paris charged on June 26, 1952, that of about 2,000,000 European Axis and 800,000 Japanese prisoners from World War II in Soviet hands, the majority had died in slave labor and that the rest were still captives.

One shot from the drunk brought down the stray duck. The hunters rushed back to congratulate their companion and found him still happily bloated.

"It wasn't nothing," Ike quoted the drunk. "Out of that flock of ducks, I was bound to hit one." Likewise, the President added soberly, out of all the speechmaking in the military conference, he wanted to stress one point.

"I want the decisions of the Joint Chiefs to be unanimous decisions," approved by the chairman," he declared. "If a minority opinion is sent up to me, I will treat it as if it hadn't been sent."

When Admiral Radford's turn at the rostrum came, he hinted of changes to come in military planning.

"The civilian leaders have changed. Now we also must change," he warned. "The election was a mandate for us to make some changes."

Radford stressed the importance of Formosa as a bulwark against communism, urged a strong policy in the Far East. This led some of the military leaders to conclude that the first "change" would be more military aid for Chiang Kai-shek.

Any minority views against moves in China, they feared, would be suppressed by President Eisenhower's order.

Postage Gets Licked

The backstage battle over postage stamps almost caused a divorce in the Eisenhower entourage. Bitterness reached a peak between Ike's close friends, Postmaster General Summerfield and Senator Carlson of Kansas, chairman of the Senate Post Offices Committee.

Carlson has been so opposed to Summerfield's proposed boost to four cents per ounce for first class mail, seven cents for air mail, and an extra 42 per cent for second class mail, that the postmaster general finally went straight to the White House. And Eisenhower agreed to make the postage hikes part of his "must" program.

This brought Senator Carlson storming over to the White House next day. There the President soothed his old friend from Kansas by indicating privately that he wouldn't really mind if mail rates weren't increased after all. He backedtracked on his stand that this was "must" legislation.

Expendable Senator

Finally the eager-beaver postmaster got into a row with Carlson as the result of a statement before the House Post Office Committee.

Summerfield told the committee that Carlson had promised him to hold hearings on the Senate side, Carlson promptly issued a denial, but Summerfield repeated his statement over TV.

This amounted, in effect, to a public charge that Carlson was a liar, and it made him furious. But to make matters worse, Summerfield gipped to four influential friends about Carlson.

"Senator Carlson is expendable," the postmaster general snorted.

When word of this got back to the senator, he retorted angrily that Summerfield, too, might be expendable.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — "Why don't they let the FBI do it?"

For many months now this has been the outcry from those who have objected to the efforts of congressional committees to ferret out Communists and subversives in America.

For many months, also, many a witness has refused to answer questions asked by a congressional committee and has claimed constitutional immunity on the ground that the information if given might tend to incriminate him.

For many months a controversy has been going on as to whether these same witnesses would co-operate with their own government if they could do so in secret—if they could be spared the publicity. Obviously to give such information to the FBI would be one means of helping the government and yet not making any headlines or public scandal about the mention of names of persons who might be innocent.

FBI Analysis

The Senate Internal Security Committee has just received from the FBI an analysis which shows that most of the witnesses refuse to co-operate even with the FBI. Here is the information furnished by the FBI to the committee:

"A review of 35 cases on individuals who invoked their constitutional privilege against self incrimination when they appeared before congressional investigative committees, reflects the following information:

"(1) Thirty-three of these individuals had some type of identification with the Communist party. Of the remaining two persons one was reported as a Communist sympathizer and the other as one who associated with Communists.

"(2) Of these 35 individuals seven had appeared before a congressional committee on a prior occasion. They proved unco-operative before the committee on each appearance.

"(3) All 35 were interviewed by FBI agents. Twenty-six were interviewed before their appearance before the congressional committee; nine were interviewed subsequent to their congressional appearance.

"(4) Of the 35 interviewed by the bureau, 28 flatly refused to talk to agents. Of the seven that did talk to agents, three denied allegations as to their Communist connections. They were not under oath.

"One refused to deny or affirm Communist party membership and refused to make any statement.

"One denied knowing he was engaged in espionage activity from 1939 to 1945. On a subsequent interview he refused to talk on the grounds of his privilege against self incrimination.

"One furnished some information about Communism but did not admit Communist party membership. On a subsequent interview he refused to answer any questions.

"One gave seemingly false information regarding his knowledge of a certain individual. On a subsequent interview two years later he refused to talk.

"(5) The 35 unco-operative individuals refused to answer questions not only about their own Communist affiliations but about Communism in general. They refused to co-operate in any way with the congressional committee.

Proved Unco-operative

"Ten out of the 35 individuals were called before congressional sessions prior to the outbreak of the Korean War in June 1950. All ten were unco-operative. Of these ten, eight were called to testify after the outbreak of the Korean War; they remained unco-operative.

"Three out of the 35 individuals were called before an executive session. They refused to co-operate. Of these three, two were not called before public sessions; again they refused to co-operate."

It will be observed that the witnesses had a chance to impart their own information without testifying under oath. Such informality aids the FBI without involving a witness in any possibility of perjury charges. But even with such protections most of the witnesses have refused to tell what they knew.

If informers were not accepted by government—indeed, in tax cases Congress has authorized the payment of rewards to citizens who help to detect criminal fraud—the jails would not contain as many convicts as they do. Many murderers are convicted only as a result of testimony coming from witnesses who have turned 'state's evidence.' To discourage the requirement of testimony in that way is to weaken the legal processes through which crime is detected and punished.

Any congressional committee which helps, therefore, the processes of disclosure by interrogating persons who have refused to co-operate with the FBI can assist in exposing conspiracies to overthrow the Government of the United States.

Here And Now

Hearsay

Is there more food of green cheese? Some say it is, some say it isn't. Is there a man in the moon? Some say there is, some say no.

On the night of July 24, this year, this space had the tryst with the moon to settle some of these mooted questions. There was not a cloud in the grayish-blue sky, no breeze stirred. The Queen of Heaven never seemed more majestic as she dominated the sky and with her all-seeing eye scanned the earth.

She had been in business a long time and knew all the answers about the legends, superstitions, romances and mythologies that had grown up around her ladyship since the dawn of history, but she left the inquiring reporter totally in the dark. Ladylike, she wouldn't even tell her age. She was non-committal, never said a "mumberlin' word, not a word."

She only blandly smiled, as much as to say, politely of course, "that's my business, not yours."

From that nightly interview there was salvaged for my pains a little nugget of wisdom that might be passed on for what it is worth, to all who are ever distressed by idle rumors, lifted eyebrows, innuendoes or hearsays. It may be put in one long but simple descriptive word—Imperturbability, meaning in the vernacular, in reply to all these aspersions, it is proper to "say nothing and saw wood."

Half Truths Damaging

Keith Falconer knew how to spell it when he took a fling at the rumormongers, title-tattlers, parroters, when he posted on his mantel the family motto: "They say. What do they say? Let them say."

One of the most subtle and damaging types of hearsay is the half-truth. It is the mudsill on which propaganda is built, and is not always easily detected.

This deponent saw a banker the other day wrap up $20,000 in good currency to be sent away and burned. Horrible! That is the exact truth, but the whole truth is the package was sent to Washington to be burned, but in its place there would be returned to the bank crisp new bills, dollar for dollar, and that would please everybody, for who likes to handle dirty money, especially when "they say" a dollar is worth 53 cents.

A young teacher in applying for a job was asked if she believed the earth is round or flat. She replied that she could teach it either way.

In so saying she revealed that she was incompetent for the job by her willingness to sponsor a theory that had been passed at least since October 12, 1492.

If a mountian climber scales the Matterhorn, he may be ever so stupid, irreverent, discourteous, but people with ulterior motives will beset him with all sorts of questions—what hair tonic does he recommend for baldish heads?—what tooth paste does he use?—does he prefer the one—or the two-piece bathing suit?—does the world need more religion?—should the United Nations be sacked?—should flying be encouraged?—all for purely propaganda purposes.

He may not be so old lady about flying as was the old naive who said men should travel by rail as God intended they should, for if He meant that they should fly, He would have given them wings.

In a trial by jury the witness is sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. There is a fourth dimension that speaks also, although it is not of record. It is the witness himself, his air, his stance, his bearing. He cannot escape a part of his testimony.

Varnish Not Needed

Truth is self-revelatory. It never needs to be propagated. It sells at sight. It needs only to be propagated. When it is demonstrated it will take.

Truth never needs varnish. You never paint a lily. You never spray a lilac bush with attar or roses.

What a man is so large a part of what he says and does that it is often hard to tell where one leaves off and the other begins. Together, in a good man, you have a powerful witness for truth as over against hearsay.

Such an example was Charles S. Medbury, who died in his pulpit in Des Moines, Iowa, on April 24, 1932. He was known and beloved by millions thousands who revere his memory. In his desk was found this declaration:

"To this day that is mine, my country's and my God's, I dedicate my all. My talents, every one, shall be held subject to the sight draft of the emergencies of others. I will enlarge my soul by cultivating love for those from whom I find myself receding. No man shall ever feel his color or his caste in my presence. The man who has fallen shall find in me a friend; the woman down, a helper. Those falling shall have my trust that they may stand again. The cry of every child shall find my heart, whether cry of need or of aspiration. Cherishing every life of whatever land or race, and mindful of the hidden struggles in all things I will strive to help and serve.

"No word shall ever pass my lips that hurts another in things of face, form, station or estate. My own weaknesses, my foibles, and my sins shall chasten speech and spirit, and deny my pride. My life shall be a dedicated thing.

"And thus I resolve, not because I am good, but that I want to be; not because I am strong, but I feel weakness; not that I feel above other, but with all my soul I long to be of human kind, both helped and helper.

"So do I dedicate my days. So do I set apart my culture. So do I receive but to give to others. So do I press humbly into the presence of the sacrificial Son of Man, crying out: 'Let me follow thee, Master, wherever the world still needs ministry, wherever life is still to be given for many.'"

SOMETHING A MAN CAN BE SURE OF...

They say at Yellowstone National Park that you can set your watch by Old Faithful. Before the entranced eyes of countless tourists this famous geyser spouts its steaming fountain every sixty-four minutes.

Too bad there aren't more things in life that a man can be sure of . . . and more people he can call "faithful."

As we realize the multitude of uncertainties in life we understand the ageless appeal of Christianity. It has satisfied man's yearning for Certainty. In Jesus Christ and his teachings we glimpse a God who is FAITHFUL, and whose faithfulness provides the firm foundation of man's FAITH.

Join the millions who are turning to the Church to find the truths a man can be sure of!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SOMETHING A MAN CAN BE SURE OF...

They say at Yellowstone National Park that you can set your watch by Old Faithful. Before the entranced eyes of countless tourists this famous geyser spouts its steaming fountain every sixty-four minutes.

Too bad there aren't more things in life that a man can be sure of . . . and more people he can call "faithful."

As we realize the multitude of uncertainties in life we understand the ageless appeal of Christianity. It has satisfied man's yearning for Certainty. In Jesus Christ and his teachings we glimpse a God who is FAITHFUL, and whose faithfulness provides the firm foundation of man's FAITH.

Join the millions who are turning to the Church to find the truths a man can be sure of!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Miss Shirley May Frazier, daughter of Mrs. Louise E. Frazier, 119 Oak Street, is to become the bride of John Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Keller, 16 Oak Street, Piedmont, today.

The wedding ceremony is being solemnized at 2:30 o'clock in St. John's Lutheran Church, with Rev. Frederick Eckhart officiating. Vases of white flowers are being used in the decorations of the altar.

Miss Dianne Thomas will be the bride's maid of honor, while Miss Dorothea Wilson is the bridesmaid. Robert Price is serving as Mr. Keller's best man and the ushers are Paul DeVore, Hagerstown, and Larry Greco.

A program of nuptial music is being played by Robert Mann, Jr., who also will accompany the vocalist, Miss Caroline Deck, singing, "I Love You Truly," and "O Perfect Love."

The bride who is being given in marriage by her uncle, Louis H. Chaney, is to be attired in a white, waltz length gown of lace and net over satin. It is fashioned with a low cut neckline, illusion yoke, long fitted lace sleeves and lace halfway down the double net skirt. Her fingertip length veil of illusion is held by a tiara of orange blossoms. She is borrowing her mother's three strand pearls as her only ornament, and completing her costume, she is carrying a Bible, topped with a white orchid and streamers.

Her maid of honor's gown is of yellow nylon net over satin, with a lace jacket and mitts. The bridesmaid's is of blue organza, made with a frosted organza apron effect and matching jacket and mitts. They are both wearing halos of fall flowers and carrying matching bouquets.

Mrs. Frazier has selected a toast colored lace and rayon dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she is wearing a brown velvet hat and purse and brown accessories. She has a corsage of tallismans roses. Mrs. Keller is wearing a tan dress with brown accessories and is carrying a brown and tan bag. Her corsage is of yellow rosebuds.

The bride will be a senior at Fort Hill High School next fall.

The bridegroom attended Piedmont High School, served in the 42nd Division Band in the ETO, and is employed at the Fairchild Aircraft plant, Hagerstown, as an inspector. He is a drummer and also vocalist in Tink Atkins' Orchestra of the Tri Towns.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception is being held at the Potomac Club, Westernport. The three tiered, heart shaped, wedding cake, iced in pink and trimmed in white, is adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. It is surrounded with individual heart shaped cakes for the attendants.

For their northern wedding trip the bride has chosen a buttermilk suit with brown accessories and with it is wearing her white orchid corsage.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

ARGUMENTS PRO AND CON

NEVER in bridge history have there been such heated arguments, pro and con, over anything in bridge tactics, as those concerning the Roth-Stone method with which an appreciable number of the leading American championship tournaments have been won in the last few years. This method makes such different uses of various calls, from those to which most good players are accustomed, that it is undeniable some opponents are at a considerable disadvantage in competing against them.

In most cases, the very arguments used by proponents of the system, in behalf of certain features, are those employed against it by its enemies, some of whom have sought, without success, to get it barred from all formal events. So many American players now use it that it has an ever-increasing number of devotees who argue in its behalf whenever the subject comes up.

Since anyone, no matter where he be, may encounter users of the method, it has been the purpose of this week's series to acquaint readers with its most striking features, to enable them to protect themselves "in the clinches" or perhaps adopt either all or some of those features themselves. Anyone interested in a thorough explanation of the method, with copious examples and quizzes, may obtain Al Roth's book, just issued through Melville Publishers, in his home city of Washington, D. C., U.S.A.

One of Al Roth's arguments, in behalf of the short-suit minor openings, when holding one or both four-card majors, is: "The opponents tend to make bad leads, as they are unable to read declarer's hand properly." Another is: "The opponents find it much more difficult to enter into competitive bidding when you have bid their best trump suit, thus making it easier for your partnership to purchase contracts as cheaply as possible."

There is no way of disputing either of those undeniably true statements. Not much can be done by opponents against the first one. Against the second, what will they do, if they have had no practice in competing against this method? Will they abolish the usually accepted meaning of bidding the opponents' suit? Will they, instead of treating it as a gigantic informative or takeout double, restore to it the natural meaning, even if the opponents bid the suit first? There are many other questions. But the general principle can be applied—forewarned is forearmed, at least to a certain extent.

ARGUMENTS PRO AND CON

NEVER in bridge history have there been such heated arguments, pro and con, over anything in bridge tactics, as those concerning the Roth-Stone method with which an appreciable number of the leading American championship tournaments have been won in the last few years. This method makes such different uses of various calls, from those to which most good players are accustomed, that it is undeniable some opponents are at a considerable disadvantage in competing against them.

In most cases, the very arguments used by proponents of the system, in behalf of certain features, are those employed against it by its enemies, some of whom have sought, without success, to get it barred from all formal events. So many American players now use it that it has an ever-increasing number of devotees who argue in its behalf whenever the subject comes up.

Since anyone, no matter where he be, may encounter users of the method, it has been the purpose of this week's series to acquaint readers with its most striking departures from customary practice, to enable them to protect themselves "in the clinches" or perhaps adopt either all or some of those features themselves. Anyone interested in a thorough explanation of the method, with copious examples and quizzes, may obtain Al Roth's book, just issued through Melville Publishers, in his home city of Washington, D. C., U. S. A.

One of Al Roth's arguments, in behalf of the short-suit minor openings, when holding one or both four-card majors, is: "The opponents tend to make bad leads, as they are unable to read declarer's hand properly." Another is: "The opponents find it much more difficult to enter into competitive bidding when you have bid their best trump suit, thus making it easier for your partnership to purchase contracts as cheaply as possible."

There is no way of disputing either of those undeniably true statements. Not much can be done by opponents against the first one. Against the second, what will they do, if they have had no practice in competing against this method? Will they abolish the usually accepted meaning of bidding the opponents' suit? Will they, instead of treating it as a gigantic informative or takeout double, restore to it the natural meaning, even if the opponents bid the suit first? There are many other questions. But the general principle can be applied—forewarned is forearmed, at least to a certain extent.

A week and a day longer a LaVale soldier would have been safe from Communist bullets in Korea.

But fate caught up with Pfc. Charles T. Shroyer, 21, son of Elmer and Josephine (Boch) Shroyer, B Street, LaVale, and husband of Mrs. Norma Lee (Colmer) Shroyer of Pekin.

On July 18, eight days before the truce was signed, while serving as a medic with the 180th Medical Battalion Pfc. Shroyer was killed in action. Word of his death was received by his wife and his parents Thursday night.

He had been in the Army only since October 7 when he was drafted through the local Selective Service.

He was married February 16 before leaving for his overseas assignment.

Besides his wife and parents, Pfc. Shroyer is survived by three brothers, Lawrence Shroyer, Dewey Shroyer and David Shroyer, all of LaVale; four sisters, Mrs. Vernon Long, Mrs. William Carter, Mrs. Cora Long, this city, and Miss Mary Shroyer, LaVale, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boch, LaVale.

Board Takes No Action On Rent Control

Upon recommendation of Gorman E. Getty, their attorney, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday decided to take action on rent control for the county.

Getty explained to the board that county areas have been decontrolled for several years and there have been no complaints of flagrant abuses of rent charges by landlords.

The Act of 1953 gave the commissioners permission to extend rent control for two years by resolution. The various incorporated communities can act locally if they wish rent control, he explained. Outside of Cumberland, none of the towns of the county have had rent control for some time.

In the event the communities decide on rent control in the future, then the county would be more or less in the position of having to follow, Getty said.

Private Shreve Dies In Korea

The signing of the armistice Sunday which brought firing to a close on the Korean front came too late for a Grant County (W. Va.) family, which has been notified of the death of their son on July 17 — just a little over a week before the cease fire was announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Shreve, of the Cabins section of Grant County, are the parents of Pvt. Delbert Shreve, 24, who was wounded in action two days before his death. Pvt. Delbert's wife is Mrs. Gaynelle M. (VanMeter) Shreve, also of the Cabins section.

The young soldier's wife received two telegrams the same day from the Adjutant General of the Army, Major Gen. William E. Bergin. The first notified Mrs. Shreve of the wounding in action on July 15, and the second carried the news of his death two days later.

Pvt. Shreve entered the service last November 21. He received his basic training at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., and spent a 15-day leave at his home before being sent to Korea on May 30.

Surviving, besides his wife and parents, is a six-months-old daughter. Pvt. Shreve was a farmer before entering the service.

board from Mrs. H. J. Luther of Winchester Road on dust which covers her residence next door to a drive-in theater.

She said the dust is ruining her curtains and furniture and is a health hazard. J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, attended the board meeting yesterday and discussed the matter with the commissioners.

The board said the owners of the drive-in will be notified to correct the situation or a court order will be obtained on violation of Health Department regulations. Dowling said the drive-in theater owners have offered to cooperate but are prevented from oiling the roadway in question as the oil would be carried onto the highway by cars and result in a traffic hazard.

The commissioners ordered an abatement of $6,750 in the assessment against a property in Westernport used by the St. James Episcopal Church as a Sunday school room. The property was recently purchased by the church.

Mrs. Muma Injured In Auto Accident

Mrs. Harold H. Muma, Cumberland, is reported resting comfortably at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland where she was taken following a back injury sustained in an automobile accident on Turkey Neck Road.

Driver of the other car involved in the accident was H. R. Smallwood of Westernport. His young son, accompanying him, was shaken up, but not injured.

Property Ownership Hearing Is Held

Testimony was completed in Circuit Court Thursday afternoon before Associate Judge George Henderson in the equity suit brought by Mrs. Emma D. Matthai, widow of Dr. Jacob H. Matthai, against Miss Eva C. Matthai of Baltimore, in connection with ownership of a property at 140 Bedford Street.

Mrs. Matthai, as widow and administratrix of the estate of Dr. Matthai, is asking the court to have the Bedford Street property declared part of the estate. The property in question is listed on a deed in Miss Matthai's name. She is a sister of the late doctor and a school teacher.

The widow claims the property was actually owned by Dr. Matthai but had been put in the sister's name in order to prevent her from obtaining possession.

Testimony in the case showed Dr. Matthai and his wife separated in 1942 and he was paying $125 monthly to her as separate maintenance. The doctor died in September of 1952.

Counsel for Mrs. Matthai includes William L. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan, this city, and Walter R. Tabler, of Baltimore. The defendant is represented by Albert A. Doub, this city, and William J. O'Donnell, of Baltimore.

Judge Henderson indicated he will write an opinion in the case later.

Trustee's Sale of Valuable Land
IMPROVED BY A SMALL DWELLING
 Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, passed in the cause entitled "Edith Carney, widow, vs. Katherine Boyd, widow, et al", same being No. 2223 Equity, will sell at public auction at the Southeast corner of Baltimore and Liberty Streets in Cumberland, Maryland, on Thursday, the 27th day of August, 1953 at 11:00 A. M. the following property:

There are many ways of making imperfect legs appear perfect!
 A disguising stance is one.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Since this is the season when legs are most in evidence, let's give them some special consideration. It's no news that many legs are not perfect — but it's news to many that much can be done to make them appear so!

The most attractive legs are those which meet at ankles, calves, knees and thighs in the standing position when feet are placed together. Often legs give the appearance of being either knock-kneed or bowed when they actually are not. The wrong stance can be the cause. Too-heavy or too-thin calves or thighs can be the cause. Any of these conditions can be corrected. There are exercises that will trim down or build up leg muscles, and anyone can master the standing technique that give legs the line of beauty.

For Bowed Legs
 Probably more girls suffer deflation of ego from believing they are bow-legged than from any other type of leg deviation. So we'll take up that problem right now, and if it's yours, here's what you do:

Stand in front of your mirror, just as you normally do, feet together, and note the gap that you wish were not there. Like magic, we're going to make it disappear. Keep your right foot just where it is, being sure, however, that the foot is pointing straight ahead. Now place your foot so that it is slightly behind your right foot and forms almost a right angle to it. Be careful that the heel of this foot is not visible from the front.

Just In Chase
 Why not get out of these war commitments and go back to our old chase? We do 'em much better.

General Miles and the lads had plenty of fun playing touch tag with Geronimo. The old bag of wrinkles was as elusive as soap in the tub.

We never did catch Geronimo fair and square. General Miles baited the trap with the first Indian blanket made in Newark.

We didn't do much better chasing Aguinardo around the Philippines in 1900. He would let Funston catch up to him any time he wanted to borrow a chew of tobacco.

Then there was a sprit down in Nicaragua named Sandino who played hare-and-hounds without our tourists ever dining on rabbit stew. We chased Sandy ten or eleven years without ever learning why. Probably because he put the bananas in the refrigerator.

Our best international chase was the pursuit of freedom, equality and Pancho Villa.

General Pershing went after Pancho around 1916 because he had a habit of shopping after dark. Pershing captured more footprints than a chiropodist.

Pancho kept just far enough ahead for the Yanks to smell good Mexican tamales and frijoles.

NOTICE
 Notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, will sit in Public Meeting at 10:00 A. M., DST, on Monday, August 17, 1953, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, for the purpose of receiving and hearing all protests and objections to the proposed changes in the zoning districts of the City contained in the final recommendations of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, dated June 20, 1953, and which are as follows:

1. Make Easterly side of Fayette Street Residential "A" between Washington and Greene Streets.
2. Make Maryland Avenue Business entire length, excepting that part which is now Industrial.
3. Make Williams Street Business from City Limits to Hill Top Drive.
4. Make that part of Louisiana Avenue Business abutting on Lots Nos. 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, Block No. 17, Johnsons Heights Addition.

All citizens and parties interested in said proceedings will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Attention is called to all citizens, that if Twenty Per Cent (20%) of the residents of an area affected by any change protest the same, an amendment to the Ordinance effecting such change shall not be effective except by the favorable vote of four-fifths of all the members of the Mayor and City Council.

The above is published in accordance with provisions of the Sections 1 and 2 of Ordinance No. 1957, passed by the Mayor and City Council in regular session on July 27, 1953.

Forty-Two Feet Of Love

"Love Is Better On Our Colossal Miracle Screen," it says right here in an ad for a movie. Now, there's an interesting, if slightly frightening, possibility. I expect it's true, too. Love on a colossal miracle screen is undoubtedly better as well as bigger and tastier and probably milder.

A movie critic I know, who had just been to see "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," was telling me about that vast experience with the picture. "In this one scene, Marilyn Monroe was stretched out on a sofa. She was 42 feet long and I loved every foot of her."

Well, I haven't seen the picture and I don't intend to. A five-foot seven-inch Marilyn Monroe is unsettling enough. Forty-two feet, I couldn't stand. Maybe not even 22 feet. And what happens when you go home and are confronted by your five-foot four-inch wife? How is a man expected to readjust his scale of values so rapidly? Naturally, a five-foot four-inch wife can't be expected to love him nearly so tumultuously as a 42-foot Marilyn Monroe, and is life worth living without it?

Love is undoubtedly better on colossal miracle screens, but can the average man stand all that outside emotion? As a matter of fact the whole problem of scale bothers me. It took me five years to get used to an eight-inch Ed Sullivan. I recall, when television first loomed as a major industry, a lot of picture folk comforted themselves with the thought that no one was going to get especially excited over even the slightest female if she were only eight inches high. And come to think of it, no one has. We've had comedians on television; we've had Imogene Coca; we've had John Dalys. We haven't had any Marilyn Monroes, if you know what I mean and I think that you do. So perhaps there is something to this theory that passions can be exactly measured by the footage they're spread out over. If you're in love you had better be nine feet tall, or the girl will think you're just kidding.

The acreage is what matters. Twentieth Century-Fox has a movie coming up called "The Robe" which is going to be the greatest thing ever, largely because the screen is roughly the size of Rhode Island. A man could take his family for a picnic on Mt. Sinai on this screen and never encounter a single actor.

But this passion for bigness has left some of the folks behind, notably me. I have seen "The Bandwagon" twice. This is a rather odd thing because there aren't many movies I see even once, much less twice. This was more or less an experiment in bigness. The first time I saw the picture in a screening room at Loew's State. There were about 80 people in the audience and it was a big crowd. I can't recall having had a better time at a picture in years.

"The Bandwagon" has about everything you ought to require in a picture. It has some of the best tunes Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz have written over a couple of decades. It has some of the best dancing you can find around. It has a very fine and very funny script by Adolph Green and Betty Comden. It has—if you go for this sort of thing—a delectable form in Cyd Charisse. The color alone—the brilliant interplay of the costumes against the scenery—was worth the price of admission.

That was the first time. The second time I saw "The Bandwagon" at the Radio City Music Hall. The screen was the size of Ebbets Field. There were 5,000 people there, muttering, falling asleep in the comfortable chairs, laughing now and then, a little late, at the jokes. They seemed to be enjoying themselves, this mob, but everyone seemed to be enjoying himself separately, like a crowd at a ballroom.

The intimacy of the theater was

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation
L O N E U D R L I B - B Y N E E W B : Z M D I A B R U
V M T N B Q O F M T B R N U B : A Q B O G E A A, O E H N V A M Y M U M I V A V M M - L M L B.

Yesterday's Cryptogram: N O N E L O V E S H I K I N G A N D C O U N T R Y B E T T E R, Y E T N O N E W A S E V E R L E S S T H E I R D E B T O R—S W I F T.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, John William Woods, killed in action, August 1, 1944.
Beyond the dark and stormy realm
Your darling's soul took flight.
Leaving behind grim battlefields
Called him home one night.
To that land so bright and fair,
And though we miss our loved one
We trust to meet him there.
Mr. & Mrs. Terrence P. Woods and Family.

Phone Contract Talk Set Monday

BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP)—Telephone contract talks set for today were postponed until Monday when one of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company negotiators was unable to attend today's session.

Operators are not involved. The negotiations involve the CIO's Communication Workers of America. The contract with the company expired July 22. The union represents 4,300 commercial, accounting and maintenance employees. The operator's independent union recently signed a contract which has a no-strike provision.

The CWA-CIO has proposed wage increases and improvements in working conditions. No details have been disclosed.

John L. Monaghan, union representative, announced last night that the workers had voted "overwhelmingly" to authorize a strike if necessary. He did not announce specific vote totals of the CWA's ten state locals.

Tank Rusts In Weed Patch
Parts of the 75,000 gallon water tank which is planned to boost water pressure in North Cumberland is seen piled on the site, gathering rust in a weed patch on Chedworth Avenue. Editor Talks At Dinner Of Farm Bureau

John Fulton Lewis, editor of the Maryland Farm Bureau News, was guest speaker at a dinner attended by 40 Allegheny County Farm Bureau members at the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall.

Lewis said the function of the Farm Bureau News is not only to inform members of the organization's activities but also to present farm problems so that there may be a closer understanding between urban and rural people.

Presiding at the dinner was Miss Ruth Clauson, president of the Associated Women. Francis Gray, who directs the Planning Group discussion program, stressed the important problems the Farm Bureau now faces.

He pointed out that Secretary of Agriculture Benson has asked the American Farm Bureau to make recommendations for his future program. Any recommendations made by the national directors will come from resolutions originating in local planning groups, which will meet throughout the United States.

Floyd Buser, Allegheny County Farm Bureau president has appointed nine men, each of whom will act as chairmen for his particular section of the county. From information gathered at these meetings, resolutions will be drawn up by the Allegheny County Resolutions Committee and taken to the state Resolutions Committee meeting in October at Baltimore.

There they will be rejected or embodied into the state resolution which in turn will be presented to the American Farm Bureau Resolutions Committee when it meets to draft recommendations for the Secretary of Agriculture.

Members attending the dinner served by the Baltimore Pike Fire Company auxiliary were from the various planning groups which comprise local discussion groups of the Farm Bureau.

What the tax rate will be is anybody's guess, except that it is not likely to go down. It could go up, from 1952's $1.28 to about $1.58, since the General Assembly raised the limit on the operating levy from 95 cents to $1.25. There is no limit to the levy to finance the city's debt.

Budget talks are expected to get underway next week and the levy must be set by August 24. Tax bills must be in the mails 30 days after the levy is set.

Phone Contract Talk Set Monday

BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP)—Telephone contract talks set for today were postponed until Monday when one of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company negotiators was unable to attend today's session.

Operators are not involved. The negotiations involve the CIO's Communication Workers of America. The contract with the company expired July 22. The union represents 4,300 commercial, accounting and maintenance employees. The operator's independent union recently signed a contract which has a no-strike provision.

The CWA-CIO has proposed wage increases and improvements in working conditions. No details have been disclosed.

John L. Monaghan, union representative, announced last night that the workers had voted "overwhelmingly" to authorize a strike if necessary. He did not announce specific vote totals of the CWA's ten state locals.

Truck Rodeo Will Feature State Highway Safety Week

The week of August 2 to 8 will be officially known as Highway Safety Week in Maryland and Baltimore, according to proclamations issued by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and Arthur B. Price, acting-mayor of Baltimore.

Culminating the observance, the Maryland Motor Truck Association will sponsor its 6th Annual Truck Safety Rodeo, an event dedicated to the dual purpose of improving driver morale through the encouragement of safety competition and demonstrating to the public the desire of the trucking industry to constantly work toward making our highways safer for all drivers. The rodeo will be held on Saturday, August 8, at Memorial Stadium starting at noon.

An accident-free driving record for a minimum of one full year

County's secondary road system. Senator Kimble was notified of the decision following a meeting Tuesday night of the State Roads Commission.

At this meeting, the SRC officials reviewed the entire construction and reconstruction program for Allegany County which is included in the 12-year plan.

Gets Top Priority

In connection with Allegany County's secondary road system, it was agreed that the road to receive top priority would be Route 135, between Westernport and McCoolle, McCain said.

SRC officials pointed out that this 4.84 mile section of highway carries a daily traffic in excess of 3,000 cars, is only 18 feet wide and contains some curves which should be modified.

The program, McCain said, calls for the modifying of these curves, widening the highway to 24 feet and complete resurfacing.

Route 51 Work Set

McCain added that it will be necessary that improvements and modifications be made to Route 220, from the Cumberland city line to the Amelle plant.

This stretch of highway, he said, carries over 7,000 cars each day. He added the project is included in the primary road system for Allegany County and will receive early consideration.

But top priority in the county's primary road system, he said, should be given to the improvements to Route 51, as indicated in the first and second four years of the program.

SRC officials pointed out that at a meeting here, it was mutually agreed by representatives present, including the County Commissioners and City officials that top priority among primary roads should be given to the Route 51 project.

Asks Early Action

Senator Kimble said yesterday he will suggest to McCain that SRC survey crews begin working on the Westernport-McCoolle road project immediately, so bids can be let and the work begun before winter sets in.

The original proposal for stepping up the Route 135 work came from Senator Kimble in conversations with G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, and then with top SRC officials.

It was later endorsed by Delegates Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Charles M. See and Lester Reed and the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

City Orders Paper For Tax Statements

Roses are red and city tax bills will be blue.

That is just about all that is known about the tax statements which the mailman will deliver to residents of this city about September 25.

A stock of paper for 1953 tax statements has been ordered by George E. Davis, city collector.

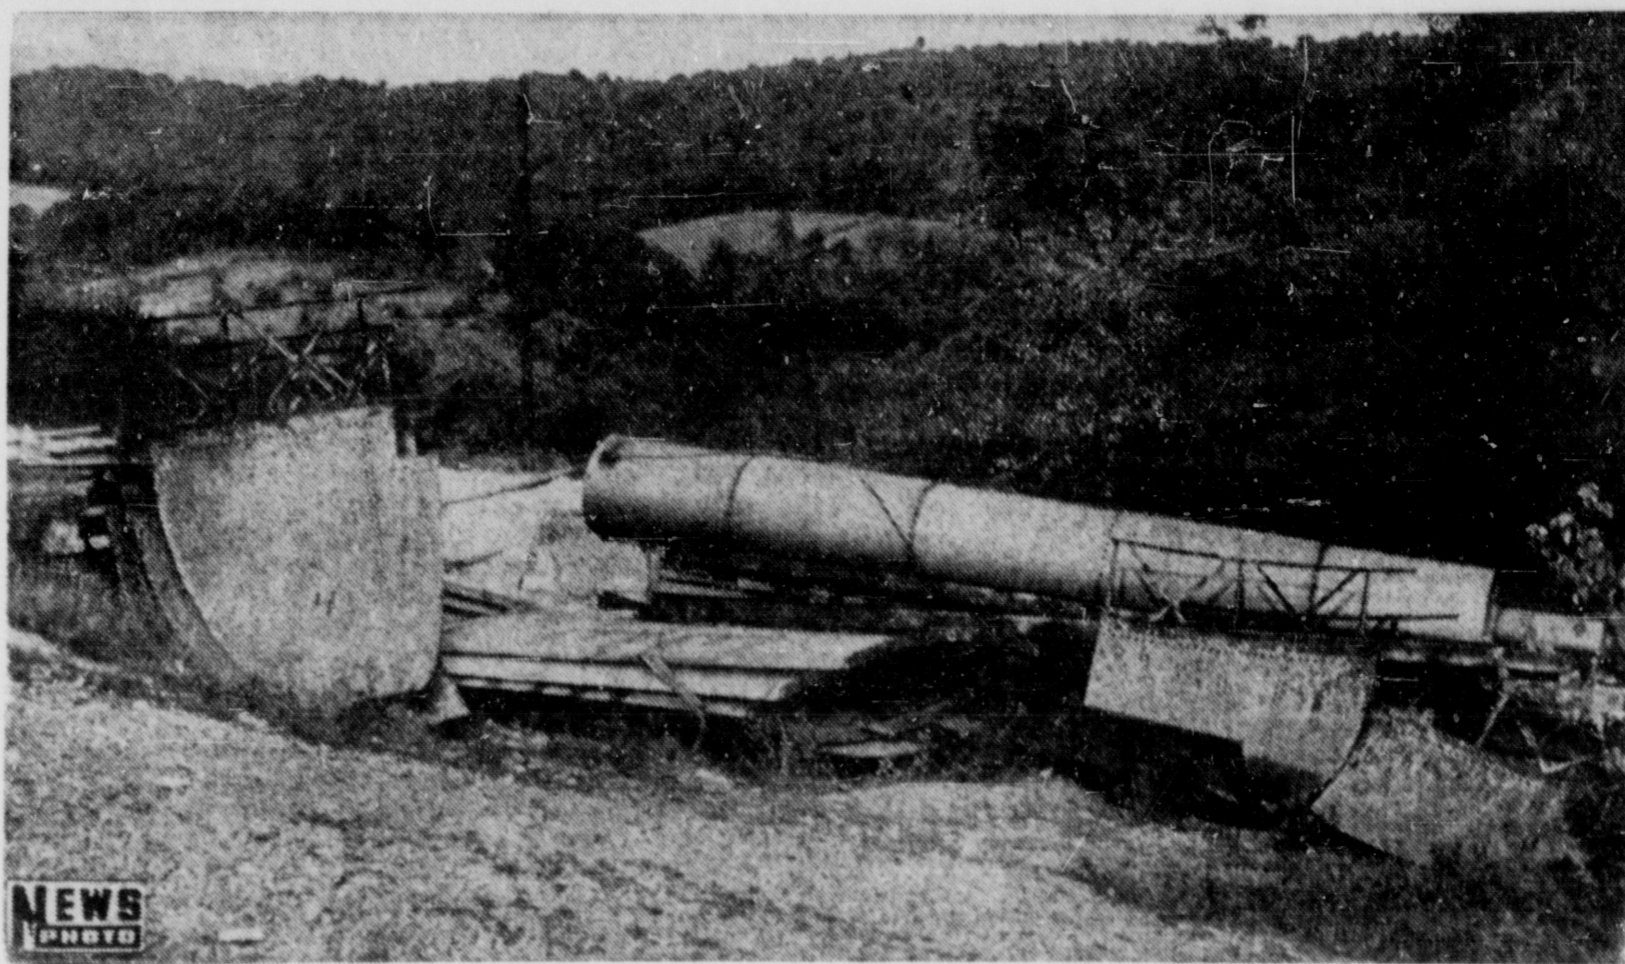

What the tax rate will be is anybody's guess, except that it is not likely to go down. It could go up, from 1952's $1.28 to about $1.58, since the General Assembly raised the limit on the operating levy from 95 cents to $1.25. There is no limit to the levy to finance the city's debt.

Also added to the program are numerous classes for children. The show, as in the past, Clapper pointed out, will feature saddle horse divisions, both three gaited and five gaited horses; the three gaited horses with a plucked mane and tail, with the three gaits of walk, trot and canter.

Net proceeds from receipts of the show will be given to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and used by the Lions Club in connection with their work with underprivileged blind children.

The club's work includes eye examinations, purchase of eye glasses, contributions to the Overlea School for the Blind, for the welfare of needy students.

Wayne Murphy, Diving Victim Fights For Life

Eighteen-year-old Wayne Murphy, critically hurt in an unusual diving accident Tuesday, continued to fight for his life last night at Memorial Hospital after undergoing surgery.

Wayne dislocated a vertebra in his neck when his head struck the side of an inner tube through which he had tried to dive at Frostburg Swimming Pool.

A lifeguard pulled him out and had him taken to Miners Hospital. A day later, he was transferred to the local hospital, and has been receiving oxygen frequently to help him breathe.

On Thursday, he underwent a tracheotomy—an operation to open his windpipe and permit him to breathe through a tube in his throat. Pressure on his spinal cord caused a partial paralysis to set in after the accident.

APs To Pick Up Two Fugitives

Air Force authorities are expected to come here today to pick up two fugitives from a stockade at Bolling Air Force Base who were captured by a State Police trooper late Thursday night.

Both men, booked as James C. Parsons of Cumberland and Charles McGuire of New Bedford, Mass., are in County Jail. They were arrested by Trooper First Class Donald R. Wade, who said they had stolen a car in Washington to make good their escape Thursday morning.

Authorities notified Air Police that the escapees had been recaptured.

Wiring Overheats

LaVale Volunteer firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. McDonald, 35 Narrows Park, early last night when wiring in the baseboard overheated. Mrs. McDonald pulled a switch and kept flames from breaking out. There was no damage.

4-H Boys Plan Exhibits For Annual Fair

An elaborate exhibit of educational booths on Improved Practices by 4-H Boys Clubs is being planned during the 38th annual Cumberland Fair August 24 to 29.

The booth must relate to an improved farm practice in some phase of agriculture either in the home or on the farm.

Examples include weed control, balanced rations, culling chickens, care of electric equipment, etc. Also included will be improved methods of conservation of natural resources soil, water, trees, fish and game.

Improved farm and home practices in labor saving methods will be on display as well as improved practices in crops, livestock and farm equipment.

Another phase will be improved farm and home practices in labor saving methods and in saving property and human life through safety practices and fire prevention.

Official note that exhibits should be natural, using soil, sod or grass, and live material where practical. This is not intended to discourage the use of miniature livestock, farm implements, buildings, fences or substitute crops.

Judging of the booth exhibits will be based upon the way in which the 4-H Club presents the conservation subject to the public.

First prize will be $25; the second $15; the third $10 with all others $5.

Rent Control To Continue In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—Baltimore is the only area in Maryland which will retain rent controls after the death of federal control machinery throughout the country at midnight.

The oath of office was administered to two of the three members of the Baltimore Rent Control Commission today.

Allegany County and Hagerstown have not set up local control machinery under the enabling act passed by the last General Assembly.

The Hagerstown City Council has been under fire from AFL and CIO groups since it voted several weeks ago against continuing controls. The council, in voting down the proposal, said it will impose controls if landlords hike prices too high.

Controls have been dead in Allegany County for several years and the Mayor and Council of Cumberland, the county seat, have chosen to let the controls die there tonight without any action.

Baltimore County was included in the enabling legislation passed by the House of Delegates, but was not in a similar bill passed by the Senate.

This unusual legislative act has led to a landlords suit in Baltimore challenging the validity of the act.

The Baltimore commission members sworn in today are John A. Dewicki, chairman, and Albert A. Levin. Under the ordinance, a Republican must be the third member.

The files of the Federal agency in Baltimore will be moved to the city commission offices tomorrow to be used in cases brought before the city body.

Only housing accommodations under federal control at midnight can be governed by the city commissioners.

Marriage Licenses Issued Last Month Surpass 1952 Total

The number of marriage licenses issued last month surpassed the total of July 1952 by 21. Joseph H. Boden, Clerk of the Court, announced yesterday.

But the total of licenses issued during the first seven months of this year did not quite reach those issued in the same period during 1952. Last month 313 licenses were issued as compared to a total of 292 in 1952. During the first seven months last year, 1,765 couples received licenses while 1,722 received them this year. All indications point to the fact June is the month for brides since this year 350 licenses were issued, the highest number for the seven months period for both years.

Marriage licenses were issued last month to residents of Alaska, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Rhode Island, Ohio, Maine, Illinois, New Jersey, New York, Florida, Missouri, Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, Alabama, Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Maryland.

Haus Nominated For Postmaster Of Mt. Savage

World War II Vet Served In Pacific

The nomination of Louis E. Haus, 32, of Mt. Savage for postmaster in that community was sent yesterday to the U. S. Senate by President Eisenhower.

Thomas Stephens has been acting postmaster in Mt. Savage since the retirement of C. W. Carney about a year ago.

Haus and about 12 others took the examination for the position sometime ago. He has been rural carrier out of Mt. Savage for almost seven years.

A veteran of World War II, he served with the U. S. Army for about three years and saw service in Okinawa and Korea. He graduated from Mt. Savage High School in 1939, attended Frostburg State Teachers College for a year and later went to work at the Amelle plant prior to being drafted.

Following his discharge he attended the Morgan Vocational School in Ridgeley and for about three years taught watchmaking and machine mathematics.

Needs Of Park To Be Studied By Committee

The City Park Board will meet next week to recommend a budget for the operation of Constitution Park for the coming year.

Plans were made yesterday afternoon, at a meeting in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves, for several city officials to check the major needs of the park and report back to the board next week.

The survey will be made by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, chairman; George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the city's filter plant, and Robert R. Golden, park superintendent.

To Estimate Cost

Among the items to be studied will be the cost of reconditioning the filter system at the park pool, maintenance and construction of roads in the park and providing facilities for a workshop.

Mayor Eves said he believes considerable work will be needed on the filters, including the cleaning or replacement of the filtering material.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, Hitchcock will be asked to prepare an estimate of the cost of the filter repairs.

The committee will also check on the possibility of repairing the present workshop and making it suitable for use during winter months, and an alternate suggestion to build a concrete block structure for that purpose.

Wants Daily Reports

Mrs. Roeder reported that Golden will be asked to prepare work sheets showing what has been accomplished each day by the park crew and to present monthly reports to the Mayor and Council each month.

Provisions should be made in the budget, Mrs. Roeder said, for the cost of a map of the park and for signs giving simple rules for the use of the recreation area.

During the past year, $20,850.21 was spent for the park. This exceeded the $19,600 budget, due to a number of factors, including the necessity of re-caulking the pool.

During yesterday's meeting, the park officials made a tentative review of a proposed budget submitted by Golden.

No action will be taken on the items until the committee presents its report.

City Faces Boost In Pension Costs

City contributions to the state pension system will increase about $13,000 this year, Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, reported yesterday.

Last year, the city provided about $51,000 as its contribution toward employee pensions and will have to provide about $64,000 in the 1953-54 budget.

This will mean about two cents on the tax rate, based on assessments of $71,500,000 which will be used when the city tax levy is set about August 24.
